Tobin Asks Big Program

Recommending expenditure of millions of dollars for public works in Greater Boston, Gov. Tobin today delivered his annual message at the opening session of the General Court which he said had a "clear and unmistakable mandate" from the people to enact legislation he had proposed in 1945.

GOV. MAURICE J. TOBIN

Included in his proposals were: A $50,000,000 arterial highway through Boston; construction of a second tube in Sumner tunnel; traffic arteries in seven cities; construction of a State office building; an 800-bed hospital at Stoneham for cancer and chronic disease sufferers.

The Governor sharply criticized the State public works department for "inability to handle such major projects as the Logan International Airport construction, the central traffic artery and related highway projects in metropolitan Boston."

He urged the Legislature to strip the department of authority over airport construction and major highway work in Greater Boston.

HITS AIRPORT SNARL

"It was expected that the development of Logan International Airport and the highway program would, within a very few months after the termination of hostilities, show signs of considerable progress," he said.

"I regret to say that no such report of progress can be made because the plans for these programs are not ready."

Pointing out the department "has no qualifications to undertake the peculiar problems involved" in the airport job, he recommended establishment of a Logan Airport Authority with power to expand the existing airport and complete "as rapidly as possible" projected facilities.

He also urged transfer of control of major projects in Greater Boston to the Metropolitan District Commission "since the Commonwealth has fallen far behind" in its postwar highway program.

The Governor's attack brought a quick reply from Public Works Comr. Herman A. MacDonald in which he defended department actions at the airport as "judicious and economic."

MacDonald issued his defense following a conference with Associate Comrs. Joseph P. Dever and George W. Schryver.

"The department has plans nearing completion for a new approach to the Logan Airport that has approval of all agencies, at an estimated cost of $6,000,000," MacDonald declared.

"The department has not rushed into approval of a $10,000,000 administration building before the temporary building is completed. The progress of fill necessary has established a new record for speed.

AID FOR VETS

"So far as the arterial highway is concerned, no funds or authorization has ever been given the department and on a project of this magnitude, there should be legislative sanction. To place these projects in new hands, of course, would not only increase the cost materially but also delay them.

"Fourth, this department has no apology to make so far as the postwar highway program is concerned. We have 16 million dollars' worth of plans ready and 30 million more than two-thirds completed."

The problem of returning veterans was placed high on the agenda by the Governor who declared:

"Nothing will contribute more to the general prosperity of our people than the return of our veterans to permanent jobs.

"It is therefore incumbent upon this Legislature to enact those measures through which the resources and the services of the Commonwealth may be directed toward the objective that I am emphasizing, namely, practical assistance for returning servicemen and women."

Specific recommendations affecting veterans included:

Amendment of the Bonus Law "so our veterans may experience

Packinghouse Strike Called

CHICAGO, Jan. 2 (AP)—A nationwide strike of approximately 200,000 members of the CIO-United Packinghouse Workers of America has been called for Jan. 16, Lewis J. Clark, union president, announced today.

He said that not only the large packers—Swift, Armour, Wilson and Cudahy—but also "most smaller independent packing plants" would be affected and the strike would involve 147 plants across the nation.

The strike is being called, Clark told a news conference, in support of the union's demand for a 25 cents an hour wage increase. Clark said, however, the union would be willing to accept an increase of 17½ cents an hour immediately with an agreement to negotiate the remaining 7½ cents. He said the overall average hourly wage in the industry now is 87 cents an hour.

A spokesman for the American Meat Institute said their policy prohibited intervention in labor matters.

Representatives of Armour, Cudahy, Swift and Wilson companies would not comment immediately but said they might have statements later.

Clark and other union international officers, Frank Ellis, vice-president; Roche, secretary-treasurer, and Lyle Cooper, research director, told reporters the 200,000 CIO workers represented 95 per cent of all slaughtering workers in the country.

Although the union is still negotiating with the packers, Clark said "the only thing that will prevent this strike is a substantial wage increase."

He said it would be the first genuinely nationwide packing strike.

The union chieftains contended the demanded wage bosot could be granted by the packers without an increase in meat prices. Cooper said costs to the packers of the wage hike would be offset by elimination of the excise profits tax, increase in productivity and elimination of overtime.

Fact Finders Busy; GE Strike Parley On

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The government scheduled positive action today in one strike threat—that of 200,000 electrical workers—but marked time in a bigger one until its newly-appointed steel fact-finding board can swing into action.

Conciliation Chief Edgar Warren called representatives of Westinghouse and General Electric companies to a delayed meeting to discuss their wage dispute with the CIO-United Electrical Workers.

While Warren hoped to avert a walkout of GE and Westinghouse by gaining an agreement for a resumption of negotiations, the Jan. 14 deadline for a strike of 700,000 CIO-Steel Workers gave the government renewed cause for concern.

President Truman Monday night appointed a three-man fact-finding panel to go into the steel wage dispute, hoping to dispel the threat of a shutdown.

Last Parley to Bar Big Electric Strike

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—A last-minute effort to avert a walkout by some 17,000 Western Electric Co. employes in New Jersey and New York city—and possibly a nation-wide telephone strike in sympathy—was scheduled for today in a conference between company and union officials. The parley was arranged by U. S. Conciliator J. R. Mandelbaum in an attempt to prevent a strike by the Independent Western Electric Employes Ass'n, set for 11 a. m. tomorrow unless a 30 per cent pay increase is granted by the company.

A 15 per cent wage increase offered by Western Electric was rejected by the union, but a spokesman indicated it would accept a compromise figure somewhere between 15 and 30 per cent.

The union said a 15 per cent increase would raise the average wage of workers from 80 to 92 cents an hour, or from $32 to $36.80 a week.

UNRRA Head Sees Jewish Plot in Exodus From Europe

FRANKFURT, Jan. 2 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick E. Morgan, chief of UNRRA operations in Germany, said today he believed thousands of Polish Jews pouring into the American occupation zone from the east were acting in accordance with "a well organized, positive plan to get out of Europe."

Morgan told newsmen he thought an unknown, secret Jewish organization was behind the infiltration. He said he was not convinced about what he described as "all the talk about pogroms within Poland."

"I believe we are about to see a second exodus of Jews—this time from Europe," he declared.

(London officials of the Jewish agency for Palestine said they had no knowledge of any organized plan to get Jews out of Europe or Poland. Lavy Bakstanski, general secretary of the Zionist Federation of Great Britain and Ireland, said he did not know of such an organization, but added: "I believe if Jews are leaving Europe it is the result of intolerable persecution and slaughter such as no people have ever faced and represents the determination of European Jewry to terminate Jewish homelessness.)

Readville Track Plan Can't Win

The dog track proposed for Readville appeared apparently doomed today by the rising protest of clergy and laity, including heads of the Catholic and Episcopal dioceses. Even if the city council votes a permit there seems to be little likelihood Gov. Tobin can risk his political future by permitting his racing commission to grant dates for any track in that area.

Seldom has the public been so articulate or so angered at a move to railroad a measure through the city council.

Perhaps the most forceful voice of all, even in comparison with those of Abp. Cushing and Bishop Sherrill, was lifted from the sickbed where the 72-year-old Rev. David F. Regan, pastor of St. Anne's Church, Hyde Park, berated his lack of physical vigor but declared: "They will never force this thing on these good people."

Latest developments in the dog track fight:

1. Philip Austin Fish, chairman the city council's executive committee announced the council will assemble at City Hall Friday to decide where the hearing on the permit will be held. Fish favors the Hyde Park municipal building, with Faneuil Hall as a second choice, for City Hall couldn't hold the crowd expected.

2. Episcopal Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill said permission for a dog track at Hyde Park would be "a parody on government by the people."

3—Members of the Holy Name Society, parishioners of St. Anne's and the Church of the Precious Blood, Hyde Park, were obtaining thousands of names on petitions opposing the track.

4—Protestant opposition in Hyde Park was being organized by the Community Church.

5—Former Lt. Gov. Francis E. Kelly announced he again would introduce a bill to have the State's racing commissioners elected, instead of being appointed by the Governor.

6—Sen. Joseph L. Murphy of Dorchester, for years a close associate of Gov. Tobin, threw up his hands in disgust at the track proposal and threatened to quit his post as Democratic floor leader.

7. James A. Burke of Hyde Park, Tobin's appointee as city registrar in 1938, who recently was discharged from the Army, announced he would lead more than 100 World War II veterans against the permit petition at the hearing Friday.

These developments followed an expression of opposition by Abp. Cushing. Bishop Sherrill, in

Captain's Own Triangle Story

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (INS)—Capt. Archie B. Miller today revealed he still is in love with his young and attractive wife, Fay, even though he is in the shadow of the electric chair for killing the man who replaced him in her affections.

Capt. Miller Fay Miller

Miller, 25, a veteran of the Battle of the Bulge, emptied a pistol into Capt. Eugene Dale, 27, a survivor of the Bataan death march, in his wife's apartment here.

In a copyright story, the New York Journal-American disclosed Miller's reserve was swept away today when he was visited in his cell by his brother-in-law, Capt. Roy C. Jackson, Jr.

Miller told Jackson:

"I'm still in love with Fay . . . Still in love, yet I'm afraid I couldn't trust her any more."

He has retained a noted criminal lawyer to defend him.

While Miller was pouring out his heart to Jackson, his wife, a former model, was in Enid, Okla., attending Dale's funeral, having been given permission by the district attorney.

Miller added:

"Fay and I had been living together for two weeks in her New York apartment when a letter came from Dale saying he was coming to New York from California on leave.

"I asked Fay if there was another man. She said: 'Yes, Archie, there is another man but now that you are back I don't know whether I love him or not.'

"The letter from Dale was the first inkling I had of who the man was. Fay told me she wanted to see him. I said, 'Go ahead, I want you to make up your mind.'"

Miller said that Fay and Dale had a rendezvous "somewhere."

"When she came back she said she still 'liked' Dale but was uncertain about being in love with him.

"One night she asked me if I'd leave her apartment so she could be free to make up her mind about it all.

"I agreed and went to Los Angeles to visit my parents and sister.

"I wasn't there long when I got word to come back that everything would be all right.

"I didn't get this directly from Fay but it was enough to send me flying back to New York. My heart was singing.

"It was like a slap in the face when I arrived. Not only had Dale not left but he was living in the apartment with Fay and Frances."

Miller said he was "like a man in a daze." He moved in and the four of them were together.

At this point, finding the situation intolerable, Miller went to see Fay's parents to ask them to intercede.

He said they both were upset because they had thought all along that Fay and he were getting along fine.

"I came back just in time to find Dale and Fay and Frances and her boy friend, Arthur Gormley, packing up to go to North Carolina for the Christmas holidays. Fay originally had planned to go with me," Miller continued.

"I spent Christmas in my wife's apartment locking at her picture and eating my heart out while I knew she was having a gay holiday with somebody else."

Miller said every time he looked at a Christmas decoration he choked up. He couldn't eat or sleep. He continued:

"They got back on the night of Dec. 28. I was out but when I returned I found all four of them laughing and chatting in the living room. I knew I had to leave there, quick.

"I went into the bedroom to get my clothes. Fay came in and threw some of them on the bed. The way she did it was an invitation to leave.

"I was packing my shaving stuff in the foot locker when my hand felt the pistol.

'After that everything blacked out. I don't remember a thing that happened until I was in the police station."

Helen of Troy Love Threat Jails Loser

After being called a "Helen of Troy," blonde and pretty Mrs. Albert DiSciullo, 24, of Waverly st., Newton, swept regally and triumphantly out of municipal court today while her discarded suitor was sentenced to serve one month in the House of Correction.

MRS. ALBERT DiSCIULLO
Her ex-Suitor Jailed

The latter, Nicholas Accardi, 29, of Jacques st., Somerville, had been charged with threatening his one-time girl friend, who was wed only Dec. 16 with a police guard at the wedding and reception.

Judge Elijah Adlow heard Mrs. DiSciullo, the former Clara DiNozzi, outline a series of threats made by Accardi prior to the wedding and then interrupted to say, "You're the Helen of Troy in this case. You're the cause of the war. If we say nothing further the war will get over sooner."

Mrs. DiSciullo testified Accardi had threatened "you won't walk out of the church alive," and Accardi told the court of an eight-year courtship—including an engagement ring—which ended Nov. 4 when Miss DiNozzi decided in favor of the other suitor.

"I've heard enough," Judge Adlow said, addressing Accardi. "There are other girls left. You'd better forget her. Don't be a sorehead or all your friends will think she was right in turning you down."

At this point, Judge Adlow indicated that a fine would settle the case, but Accardi jumped up and shouted, "I appeal."

"All right," the judge countered, "I'll give you something to appeal. One month for you in the house of correction."

Nazi Slaughter Of Yanks Told

By NOLAND NORGAARD

NUERNBERG, Jan. 2 (AP)—The international military tribunal heard testimony today Ernst Kaltenbrunner, former head of the Gestapo and security police, personally ordered execution of 12 to 15 Americans, including War Correspondent Joseph Morton of the Associated Press.

Morton and members of Strategic Services were captured late in 1944 far behind German lines in Slovakia. They were put to death without a trial.

Americans prosecutors put into the records of the war crimes trial of Kaltenbrunner and 20 other ranking Nazis an affidavit by Adolph Zutter, adjutant at the Mauthausen murder camp, telling how the Americans were brought in from Slovakia.

"I suppose the number of arrivals was about 12 to 15 men," Zutter's disposition said. "They wore a uniform which was American or Canadian, brown-green in color and a shirt and cloth hat. Eight or ten days after their arrival, an execution order came in by telegraph or teletype.

"Standarten Fuehrer Zeireis (then commandant of the camp) came to me in my office and told me: 'Now Kaltenbrunner has given permission for the execution.' The letter was secret and had the signature: Signed Kaltenbrunner."

The court also heard that Hitler personally ordered the "slaughter to the last man" of all Allied parachute and Commando troops captured after Oct. 18, 1942.

Hitler's slaughter order, of which 12 copies were made, was inspired by his fury over the Dieppe raid and similar operations, American prosecutors told the court.

"From now on," the order asserted, "all enemies on so-called Commando missions in Europe or Africa challenged by German troops, even if they are to all appearances soldiers in uniform or demolition troops, whether armed or unarmed, in battle or in flight, are to be slaughtered to the last man.

"It does not make any difference whether they are landed from ships and airplanes for their actions or whether they are dropped by parachute. Even if these individuals, when found, should apparently be prepared to give themselves up, no pardon is to be granted them on principle."

The order demanded individual Commando soldiers or paratroopers be handed over immediately to Heinrich Himmler's Security Guard. Apparently foreseeing objections among German soldiers to the brutal murder of all such prisoners, Hitler added:

"I will hold responsible under military law, for failing to carry out this order, all commanders and officers who either have neglected the duty of instructing troops about this order or acting against the order where it was to be executed."

The prosecution also read to the tribunal a vivid eye-witness account of how Nazi SS troops and security police massacred 5000 Jews in one night in Rowne, Ukrania.

The story of the slaughter of helpless men, women and children in the Rowne ghetto—after an SS commander had given assurances that no pogrom was planned—was given in an affidavit by a German contractor, Hermann Friedrich Graebe.

4 Cities Battle Fire in Chelsea

A two-alarm fire, battled by firemen of four cities, caused damage of $2000 to a three-story wooden apartment building at Chestnut and Second sts., Chelsea, today and forced an exodus of five persons.

Charles Bradbury, 67, a second-floor occupant recuperating from illness, was carried out by firemen, but his wife, Martha, reached the street without assistance.

Those who fled from the first floor were Mr. and Mrs. Eben Pye, and their daughter, Mrs. Doris Beaudreau, who carried her child of 16 months, Karen.

Alfred Zajak, 18, ran from the third floor, where the fire originated in the kitchen.

Chelsea firemen were assisted by men and apparatus from Boston, Everett and Revere.

31 Boats Idle, Boston Fish Shortage Acute

Boston, home of the cod and one of the world's greatest fish ports, is in the midst of a critical fish shortage with even its frozen supply dropping to new lows.

This was announced today by Thomas D. Rice, executive secretary of the Federated Fishing Boats of New England and New York, as 31 beam trawlers remained at their berths and no further move was made to settle a dispute between owners and fishermen.

The lone Boston arrival today was a dragger which brought in 86,000 pounds of groundfish, a trickle eagerly gobbled up by dealers.

Rice said Boston still has 20,000,000 pounds in the freezers, but added that more than half of it is owned by Midwest concerns and may be shipped at any moment. The remainder represents only a one-month supply for New England.

Owner members of the Federated and leaders of the Atlantic Fishermen's Union, AFL, said they would not confer further until another date is set by Gen. Charles H. Cole, commissioner of arbitration and conciliation.

Stalemate and shutdown came when owners refused to agree to a demand by the union that crews of new trawlers be given 60 per cent of the catch. Present agreements call for a 50-50 split.

Meanwhile, the price of fish must remain the same under OPA ceiling prices that do not expire until June.

Fuller's Counsel Asks Mistrial In Curley Case

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Motion for a mistrial was made today by counsel for James G. Fuller, one of five former officials of Engineers Group, Inc., charged with using the mails to defraud.

The attorney declared a story published in a Washington newspaper referring to Fuller's record "has made it virtually impossible for this defendant to receive a fair trial."

The motion was taken under advisement.

On trial besides Fuller are Rep. James M. Curley (D.) of Massachusetts, mayor-elect of Boston; Donald Wakefield Smith of Pittsburgh and Washington, former member of the National Labor Relations Board; James Barton Underwood, formerly of Washington, and Bert Hall of Dallas, Tex., and Tulsa, Okla.

The government dropped its attempt today to get into the record a statement signed by Fuller in 1943 in Brooklyn. Prosecuting Atty. William A. Paisley had described it as "a confession."

Paisley said he now considered the statement "untrustworthy" because of testimony given by James D. Saver, assistant United States district attorney at Brooklyn.

Before the trial recessed for the holidays Saver told the court Fuller signed the statement while held in Brooklyn on bad check charges. He said he told Fuller if he co-operated with the government he would so inform the judge who was to sentence him. This, he said, was the only promise made to Fuller. He denied threats were made.

Bernard W. La Prade of Richmond testified tolay that in 1940 Fuller made an oral application for a loan in connection with a housing program in the Norfolk, Va., area but no formal action was taken by the Morris Plan Bank, of which La Prade was an official.

He also said the bank made no commitment on a program by the Conway housing priject for more than 200 foundations.

David W. Carter of the Federal Housing Administration at Richmond said he had received no application by engineers group in reference to the housing project.

Earlier in the trial, Anthony C. LaRocca testified his brother, Arnold, president of the Key West Construction Co. of New York, paid Engineers Group $2430 of a total proposed fee of $4860 for contract work at the Conway project.

New Stamp Good for 5 Lb. Sugar--But Where Is It?

Housewives have a brand new supar stamp, No. 39, today—but there were few places in Greater Boston where they could spend it.

The hunt began almost as soon as the stores opened, but managers of both neighborhood stores and the big food marts sadly shook their heads. New quotas have not arrived yet from the refineries.

This was the condition at virtually all stores except those of one of the big chains. A spokesman for the latter said every one of their stores had a supply but it would not survive a heavy buying rush for more than two or three days.

Home stocks were generally in a depleted condition.

Those who previously have fallen back on hotels and restaurants for a bit of sweet when everything else failed found this supply getting steadily worse. Many an eatery pushed out coffee on the basis of "Take it without, or else." Several restaurants displayed signs "saccharine only."

When new quotas will arrive at neighborhood groceries was pretty much a guess. Owners stated frankly they did not know.

Fire Razes Oak Bluffs Five-Story Landmark

OAK BLUFFS, Jan. 2—Fire destroyed the Metropolitan building, five-story island landmark, today and for hours threatened the town's entire business district. Breaking out shortly before noon, flames sped through the postoffice, a drugstore and a gift shop and then roared through four upper floors once used as a resort hotel.

Sub-freezing temperatures and a poor water supply hampered firefighters and Chief Harry Webb was forced to pump salt water from the ocean some distance away. Aid was called from Tisbury and the Naval Air Station at West Tisbury.

Smoke pouring from the doomed wooden structure billowed high in the air and was visible at Vineyard Haven, four miles away. A strong northwest wind carried embers across to the Pawnee House and to a residential district beyond, but the island's firemen held the blaze to the one big block.

Postoffice workers emptied the building of all mail, finishing the job just as flames reached that section.

At one time, the building was famous as a hotel with accommodations for more than 300 guests.

Vet Divorces Bride Who Loved Another

Even if you're a multi-ribboned veterans of the famous Eighth Army, a staff sergeant, with the muck and blood of European battlefields as soul-hardeners, it isn't easy to stand up in court and tell the world the bride of three weeks you left behind sought comfort in another man's arms.

That's the way it was today with S-Sgt. Albert A. Evans of Pilgrim rd., Back Bay. His voice choked as he came to his feet in Suffolk Probate Court and held aloft a letter he had received while fighting the good fight in Europe.

He explained he had married Helen R. MacDiarmid Oct. 11, 1943, and they had made their home in Winchester. Three weeks after they had taken their vows he was sent overseas.

Last spring, he said, he discovered she had tired of waiting. He showed Judge John V. Mahoney her letter. She wrote she no longer loved him. He read from her pages: "I also have been unfaithful."

He sought her when he came home last October. He couldn't find her.

Marjorie H. Lind of Providence, who told the court she knew Evans and his bride, testified she saw her with another man in a Boston hotel and they invited her to have breakfast in their room the following morning.

Evans got the divorce.

So did Mrs. Florence A. Johnson of Bickford ave., Revere, who said her husband, Leslie, had an aversion for beds when he was drinking. She said: "He would sleep on the floor, or in chairs, or on tables. Most of the time on tables."

$2 Per Slice

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (INS)—Boxcar Betty, self-styled Queen of the Hoboes, dropped $12 to a stickup man, but slashed him six times with a knife before he fled.

Betty reported the incident to newsmen and asked that no attempt be made to verify the story with police. She explained:

Beaten Wife Says Love Sealed Lips

Love for her husband stopped her from previously complaining when he beat her up, Mrs. Ethel Broadhurst, 28, of Smith ct., West End, testified in Municipal Court today when her husband William was arraigned charged with assault and battery on her.

While her five-year-old daughter, Christina, played around in the courtroom, Mrs. Broadhurst testified that after eight years the beating her husband gave her on New Year's Eve was just too much.

When she explained love had halted previous complaints, Broadhurst spoke up, saying:

"Oh, give me another chance! I'll smarten up."

"No you won't" Mrs. Broadhurst retorted.

Judge Daniel J. Gillen found Broadhurst guilty of assault and battery and drunkenness and continued disposition until Friday.

100-Ton Boom

WITH U. S. 32D DIVISION, Fukuoka, Japan, Jan. 2 (AP)—Nearly 100 tons of machine-gun, rifle and pistol bullets—some 3,500,000 rounds — were destroyed today in a surprisingly mild fire set by the 127th Infantry Regiment to accomplish the largest single day's destructions of small arms ammunition in Japan.

Quiz Boy's Pals In Whisky Death

Several boy chums were today being questioned by police in their effort to identify the man who reportedly gave 14-year-old Joseph McDonough of Florida st., Dorchester, a quart of whisky, which the boy drank, causing his death.

The boy was found by his father shortly before midnight on New Year's Eve on the bathhouse steps of Mary Hemenway Park. He was writhing in agony and was rushed to Boston City Hospital, where he died. Medical Examiner Timothy Leary said death was due to strangulation, caused by alcohol.

Two friends of the McDanough boy told police they met him "weaving" along Adams st. carrying a nearly empty bottle. He told them, they said, a man had bought the whisky for him.

Working on this angle police have launched a search of the Fields Corner section.

They indicated that until their investigation is complete no date wil be set for the inquest.

Girl, 18, Fulfills Pact With Death

WILMINGTON, Cal., Jan. 2 (AP)—"A year ago exactly," read the note Mrs. Mildred Johnson tore open, "I made this sort of agreement, or bargain, with God, or fate—or something.

"I agreed that if something did not happen in 1945 to make life worth living, at the end of the year I'd quit living. That wasn't asking too much, but I did not get it. I can't see any happiness ahead for me, so I'm hoping and praying that I succeed tonight."

In the garage Mrs. Johnson found the body of her daughter, Wanda Williams, 18, hanging from a rafter. Police listed the death as suicide.

Dies at City Hospital

Millen, Faber Trial M. D. Dies

Dr. Ray H. Shattuck, 54, Boston psychiatrist prominent as a defense alienist in the Millen-Faber trial 12 years ago, died today in the accident ward of Boston City Hospital after he had been moved there from a private institution in Roxbury.

Medical Examiner Timothy Leary said that death was due to natural causes. Earlier Dr. Alfred Goldberg of the City Hospital staff said that Dr. Shattuck had died as a result of a cerebral vascular accident.

Officials at Dr. Taylor's private hospital, Center at., Roxbury, said Dr. Shattuck had been a patient there periodically for several years.

Dr. Shattuck, whose address is listed as Pembroke st., South End, was a staff physician at City Hospital when he testified at the trial of Millen-Faber at Dedham in 1934.

JANUARY IS JORDAN MONTH IN BOSTON

Opening on a New Year—our ninety-sixth—our windows, like those of Boston itself, are opening on a New Era . . . on new conceptions of better things for better times in a city growing ever greater; its highways and skyways humming with vast transport; its greater port linking sea, land and airlanes to all the markets of the world . . . The immense promise of the years that lie ahead, is challenging . . . for a city, and for its largest store through whose doors, the stirring industry of peacetime America, again will reach New England. We believe they will be good years—stimulating, rewarding, as new horizons always are, to people, businesses, communities, nations. And thus on our Birthday it is the Future which beckons, as it has after four wars, in two centuries, ninety-five times. And thus its beckoning finds us launching our annual celebration with values again ready to confirm "January is Jordan Month in Boston" . . . ever growing, ever greater—mirroring Boston's future which is your future, and ours!

Truman Winding Up Radio Speech Draft

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — President Truman worked today on the final draft of a radio address to the nation tomorrow night. Mr. Truman returned to his desk at the White House ths morning after a four-day cruise on the presidential yacht Williamsburg.

A short time earlier he had driven to the Union Station to welcome home Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, from their Christmas trip to Missouri.

He devoted part of his cruise time to work on both speeches, getting well along to completion on the radio address, in which he is expected to seek the people's support for his stalled legislative program.

White House Press Secretary Ross disclosed that the President had not made up his mind whether to submit in person his annual message to Congress shortly after it reconvenes on Jan. 14.

The White House described as "pure speculation" reports of differences within the Administration over labor policy.

Ross made this comment at a news conference when asked about a report the President may summon Labor Sec. Schwellenbach for a "heart to heart talk."

This report asserted that some Labor Department attaches feel that there is an official Labor Department run by Schwellenbach and an unofficial one by Dr. John R. Steelman, presidential assistant and former chief of the conciliation service.

"It was announced when Mr. Steelman came in as special assistant that he was not brought in as labor adviser," Ross asserted. "The President has no labor adviser as such, and Mr. Steelman does not deal exclusively with labor matters."

He denied that Schwellenbach has been left out of some labor policy consultations.

"Judge Schwellenbach and John Steelman are old friends," Ross added. "They have consulted together very frequently."

Priest Stabbed Battling Burglar

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Rev. Sylvester Benack, assistant at St. Brigid's Roman Catholic Church, Brooklyn, was stabbed in the face and neck early today during a struggle with an unidentified intruder at the church rectory.

The 27-year-old priest, who was in "fair condition" at St. Catherine's Hospital, said he awakened at 4 a. m. to find the intruder standing over him. In the ensuing struggle in two rooms and down three flights of stairs chairs were knocked over and glass was smashed, but three other priests asleep in the rectory were not awakened.

VETS POST TO FRAZER

News Briefs

Joseph P. Dever, State associate public works commissioner, today tendered his resignation to Gov. Tobin and announced he would become Boston manager of the Cahagan Construction Co. of New York, contractors at Logan Airport.

Dever said the resignation would be effective as soon as his successor is named.

Only one motorist has been stopped by Boston police up to 2 p. m. today for not having his 1946 registration. The lone violator stopped in downtown Boston showed police he had the plate with him, and then and there put it on the car.

Gov. Tobin today transferred $100,000 from his emergency fund to the state bonus division to meet payments to veterans during the next three months. Nearly $160,000 has been paid since the law became effective last September.

A. Emmett Logue of Garden st., West Roxbury, president and treasurer of the Charles Logue Building Co., today was made a member of the Boston Schoolhouse Commission.

Stanley Roskowski of Harvard st., Natick, has such an overpowering love for blooms he couldn't resist the temptation to steal flower seeds from the mail at South Postal station, where he is employed as porter.

This was his explanation today in pleading guilty before Federal Judge Francis J. W. Ford. The latter placed the flower-loving Roskowski on probation for one year.

Nord Bigamy Case Deferred

Declaring he needed more time to study the law involved, Judge Daniel W. Casey, in West Roxbury Court, today ordered continued until Jan. 12 the bigamy case brought against Fred C. Nord of Hyde Park by his first wife, Mrs. Mabel Nord of Quincy.

Nord says he was never married to the woman who claims to be his first wife. Police, however, told the court they have a copy of a marriage certificate issued to Mrs. Mabel Nord and a Fred C. Nord at Buffalo, N. Y., in 1923.

Also in court today was A. Edward Donahue, first husband of Mrs. Nord, who has told the court he married Mrs. Nord in 1917 and divorced her in 1927.

High Court Refuses To Remove Sen. Glass

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (INS)—The Supreme Court today refused to hear an action seeking to declare vacant the Senate seat of Sen. Carter Glass (D.) of Virginia.

The case was started by John Locke Green, treasurer of Arlington county, Va., who contended Glass has been unable to fulfil his duties for more than three years because of illness and advanced age. Glass is 87.

Deadly Vintage

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (INS)—Six residents of the Bronx arranged to pay their landlady $15 for electricity to light the cellar in which they made wine for their own use.

Each was supposed to contribute $2.50 to the co-operative wine venture.

Joseph Storace, 54, visited Joseph Putignano, 53, to collect.

Police said a dispute followed, Putignano refused to pay, and stabbed Storace to death.

Dutch Tug to Aid U. S. Troopship

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Dutch tug Thames was under way today from Cobh, Eire, to assist the 7196-ton American troopship John B. Hood, wallowing off the Azores without a propeller.

The Hood, carrying 570 troops from Marseilles to New York, lost her propeller yesterday, but messaged last night she was in no immediate danger.

The U. S. S. Marion McKinley Bovard was standing by, and the carrier Lake Champlain also went to the scene.

The Thames was expected to reach the Hood's position tomorrow and tow her to Horta, the Azores.

Tobin Blamed In Housing Lack

Blame for the lack of a constructive housing program in Massachusetts was placed squarely on Gov. Tobin today.

Thomas F. Flynn, executive director of the Boston Apartment House Owners' Ass'n, termed the situation disgraceful and charged the Governor had failed to take direct action.

"Gov. Tobin has executive power to get construction started or at least to make housing the state's first order of business," Flynn asserted.

"It is a travesty to put UNO ahead of the acute problem of providing housing for our war veterans, thousands of whom are walking the streets day after day in a futile search for a home for themselves and their families," he said

British Wait New Indonesian Attack

BATAVIA, Jan. 2 (AP)—British sources reported today that Indonesian Nationalist forces were assembling near Semarang in North Central Java and said the concentration suggested the possibility the Indonesians were preparing for a large scale attack in that area within a few days.

Stark Denies Seeing Tokyo Tipoff Order

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Adm. Harold R. Stark said today an intercepted Tokyo message containing a pre-war tipoff on the possibility of an aerial attack on Pearl Harbor was never called to his attention at the time, as far as he could recollect.

Stark also told a Senate-House inquiry committee no one in the Army or Navy here interpreted the message for what they now see it was—a step in laying bombing plans.

The message was picked up, decoded and translated Oct. 9, 1941. It instructed Jap agents in Honolulu to divide Pearl Harbor into districts and report positions of ships in the harbor. This was followed by several other messages, translated early in December, dealing with information about the harbor.

"I have no recollection of having seen those messages," testified Stark, who was chief of naval operations. "I believe I did not see them, although I might possibly have seen them."

The committee named Seth W. Richardson, Washington attorney, as its counsel to succeed William D. Mitchell, who resigned with his staff because the investigation's scope had so broadened time for its conclusion was extended by Congress to Feb. 15.

Richardson, a former assistant attorney general in the Hoover Administration, was chosen unanimously by the committee, Chairman Barkley (D.) of Kentucky, said.

Adm. Stark explained intercepted Jap messages were brought to him in a bound book in a locked pouch. He said the office of Naval Intelligence put a paper clip on the top of messages they thought important enough for him to read.

He always read these, Stark said, and often checked the others to be sure he was getting all important information he should have.

Stark said there is no doubt the "bomb plan" message translated Oct. 9 was in a class by itself in that it inquired not only for information on the movement of ships but on their position in a harbor.

"In the light of hindsight," he said, "it stands out very clearly. From what we can read in it now it indicates the possibility, or the groundwork, for a possible air raid on Pearl Harbor.

"That significance was not pointed out to me at the time, nor have I any recollection that anybody in the Navy Department so interpreted it then."

Counsel Mitchell asked if the message could have meant anything else except a search for information needed for an air attack.

Stark said it could have meant the Japs were planning a submarine attack.

Mitchell wanted to know if it wasn't of vital interest to Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, in any event. The committee has received testimony Kimmel was not told about th message.

"Yes," Stark replied.

Bullock Defends Refusal To Parole Old Offenders

Criticized by the State Prison chaplain for being "excessively severe" in handling parole applications, Chairman Matthew J. Bullock of the State parole board today said his group was "meeting our responsibility to the best of our ability."

"All I care to say with respect to the comment of Rev. Joseph A. Robinson, prison chaplain, is that the responsibility for releasing serious offenders into the community rests with us," Bullock declared.

Fr. Robinson charged the morale of prisoners had been seriously impaired by the board's refusal of parole requests "by men who have served two-thirds of their terms, making them serve their full terms."

Bullock revealed that the prisoner who interrupted an address by Archbishop Cushing during his New Year's visit to the prison, was an old offender with a record since he was 11 years old.

The prisoner complained to the priest that he had been unjustly returned to prison for parole violation.

Bullock said the man's record included convictions for larceny, robbery, kidnaping, drunkenness and disturbing the peace. He said he was released in December, 1943, after serving nearly seven years for robbery and kidnaping.

He was returned to prison Jan. 8, 1945 for violating parole conditions which forbade drinking, Bullock said.

Carbon Product Called Rival of X-Ray

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2 (AP)—Carbon 13, a rare chemical used in biological research—particularly cancer—and regarded as a medical tool that will rank in importance with the X-ray, is to be produced in quantity, the Sun Oil Co. and the Houdry Process Corp. reported.

Production, since experiments with the chemical began, has been less than one-half ounce a year, a joint statement by the companies said.

Round Trip

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry Arisohn, the taxicab driver who last week drove six Marines from Los Angeles to their homes in the East, started his return trip yesterday. This time with three servicemen aboard. He said he expected to pick up two more in Chicago.

Before the departure there was a ceremony in front of a hat store here owned by Arisohn's father. Some 100 persons watched as Coralee Burson, a blonde Spar, "christened" the cab with a soft drink bottle.

2 Die on Way To Sailor Son

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Wilson of Belford, N. J., on a trip to visit their son in the Navy at Brooklyn, died when their automobile plunged from a ferry ramp at St. George, Staten Island, into 30 feet of icy water.

Witnesses said a hawser which held the ferryboat against the ramp snapped just as the Wilsons' automobile was about to board it. The boat moved away from the ramp, leaving a space through which the car slid.

The children were found in a rock crevasse after city and park police conducted a four-hour search.

Patterson Reply Snubs M'Arthur

HONOLULU, Jan. 2 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur is given all the information possible but "it is not necessary that he be consulted in advance" on Allied occupation policies for Japan, War Secretary Patterson told a press conference.

"We advise MacArthur and give the general all the information possible relative to his command," the secretary said in reply to a question based on the general's statement that he had not been consulted during the recent Moscow conference at which an Allied council was set up to pass upon occupation policies.

MacArthur properly has no voice in making foreign relations policies, Patterson said.

Overseas GIs Protest Priority for Brides

LONDON, Jan. 2 (INS)—Some 1000 American servicemen protested today they were forced to remain in England to provide shipping space for GI brides traveling to the United States.

The vigorous objections took the form of letters and cables to U. S. congressmen and newspaper editors.

Labor to Back Clothing Drive

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (INS)—Henry J. Kaiser, national chairman of the Victory Clothing Collection for Overseas, announced that the nation's labor organizations have pledged all-out support of the drive for 100 million garments.

He said full endorsement had been pledged by AFL Pres. William Green, CIO Pres. Philip Murray, Railroad Trainmen's Brotherhood Pres. A. F. Whitney, UMW Pres. John L. Lewis and Adolph Held, chairman of the Jewish Labor Committee.

IRON CURTAIN

THE CHIEF of the American State Department's Near East section, Mr. Harold B. Minor, applied recently for Russian permission to visit the province of Azerbaijan in Iran, which is in revolt against the established government of Iran.

This was necessary because Russian armed forces are in complete control of Azerbaijan, and have given inspiration and assistance to the revolution and have prevented regular Iranian forces from entering the province to oppose the insurrection.

The province is in fact not in revolution against Iran, but under RUSSIAN OCCUPATION.

There is no room for doubt that it will ultimately be a RUSSIAN PROVINCE, in avowed fact—as it is now in reality.

Accordingly, when Mr. Minor sought to enter the province for the purpose of observing conditions there and reporting the true situation to the American Government, he was compelled to seek the right of entry from the true rulers—which, of course, are the Russians.

Mr. Minor was not openly refused entry.

But every day, for sixteen days, he met with "polite evasions."

At the end of sixteen days he was still cooling his heels at the border, and very sensibly gave up trying.

Sixteen days of such procrastination, he realistically decided, constitute "a definite refusal by the Soviet to allow Americans to judge for themselves if friends are being allowed freedom in solving their own internal affairs."

The frustration of Mr. Minor provoked him into saying:

"I hope my experience and the experience of American newsmen in Teheran will result in demands for a Soviet statement of policy on freedom of the press and distribution of information among friendly nations."

It is to be feared this is a vain hope.

The Russian Government has never given free entry to American observers into any occupied territories, and is making no exception of Azerbaijan.

It is pertinent in this connection to recall that Winston Churchill, in his first speech as minority leader in the British Parliament, commented bitterly on this Russian policy.

"Almost everywhere," said Mr. Churchill, "Communist forces have obtained or are in progress of obtaining DICTATORIAL POWERS.

"It is not impossible that tragedy on a prodigious scale is unfolding itself BEHIND AN IRON CURTAIN which at present divides Europe in twain."

What Mr. Minor encountered, therefore, was the IRON CURTAIN of Red Fascist Russia—in a new place.

The "prodigious tragedies" going on behind the iron curtain are of the same character in Azerbaijan as elsewhere.

THE PROVINCE ITSELF IS BEING TAKEN OVER BY RUSSIA, LOCK, STOCK AND BARREL.

Russia is pursuing its normal course and disclosing its true character in this instance—with callous indifference to the rights of the government of Iran in the matter, and with equally callous contempt for whatever opinion the American Government might have about the matter.

HUMANE HERO

BECAUSE he could not bring his Alsatian dog with him to the United States, Pvt. Rocky Doolittle of Detroit, hero of the European campaign, gave up a chance to spend Christmas at home and remained in London.

It is unfortunate that many persons who have been spared the horrors of war lack the humanity of Pvt. Doolittle.

If they had only a fractionary part of his gentle nature, they would rise up in anger and indignation and demand that the law-makers put a stop to the unspeakably brutal activities of the vivisectionists who every day butcher helpless dogs in laboratories, attics and cellars, without anaesthetic, or mercy of any kind.

PASSING BY: Bill Sweda. Chicago sportscribe. His father is a canary breeder. At present Sweda, Sr., is trying to breed a black canary. He has already bred a white canary . . . Max Marcin. Veteran playwright. His greatest hit was "Cheating Cheaters," written in 1916. He also collaborated with Milton Herbert Gropper on "The Big Fight," which was produced by David Belasco. The star of this opus was none other than Jack Dempsey, the Manassa Mauler. The critics said Jack acted well but was handicapped by "a high squeaky voice." I think "The Big Fight" ran about two weeks . . . Lon McAllister. Brilliant young actor, about to resume his career after a period in the armed forces. Remember Lon in "Home in Indiana"? That is the best horse racing film I ever saw. Second best on my list is "Salty O'Rourke" . . . George M. Cohan, Jr. Soon to be starred in a revival of his father's famous play, "Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway." If you can remember the hit songs of that show you have a better memory than I. Think "Mary Is a Grand Old Name" was one but I wouldn't bet stogies on it.

CELEBRITIES: It is interesting to consider how many celebrated successful men would never have been born if their parents had practiced birth control. Edward Lear, famous nonsense rhymer and limerick specialist, was the 21st child of his parents. Keep that in mind if you are anxious to have a celebrity in your family. Of course, having 21 children is perhaps overdoing the thing. You could stop at the 15th child. And if you didn't produce a celebrity I don't think anyone could rightly say you didn't try.

HORSES AND WOMEN: A woman who is completely and intelligently loved by her husband never voices strong criticisms of men in general. She never says men are not to be trusted or that they are selfish, or that she hates men. And so on. Only women who are unintelligently and inexpertly handled by their husbands talk that way. Or so states an expert on the subject of the workings of the female mind. Our Horses and Women Department has been instructed thoroughly to check on this claim.

★ ★ ★

MULES AND MEN: Aries (March 21-April 20) husbands are bossy, quarrelsome, vain and conceited. They require a "yes woman" type for a wife. Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) husbands are "married bachelors." It is practically impossible to break them into matrimonial harness in a satisfactory way. Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) husbands are good providers, easy to tame but are not much as lovers. That is what three young matrons of New York claim, saying their findings result from a careful study of a number of husbands which included checking with the wives of the men studied.

KISSLESS FILM: In "Kitty" the heroine, played by Paulette Goddard, is not kissed even once by the hero portrayed by Ray Milland, though it is indicated he loves the girl and intends to marry her. FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—There seems to be no legal objection to President Truman's decision that immigration shall be resumed under the quota system, but he would have made a better impression and honesty would have been served if he had not resorted to the same imposition on our sympathies that was employed by his late predecessor when he decided to admit the Oswego party in June, 1944.

Pegler

Mr. Roosevelt said that a group of 1000, whom he had arbitrarily decided to admit, would be "predominantly women and children." They were, in fact, predominantly adult males and not predominantly toilers but lawyers, doctors, musicians, writers, artists, shop-keepers and business men.

The party numbered 981, only 200 of whom were women and children and, on the basis of past performance, it may be assumed that the new quotas will be made up of about the same elements.

The basis for individual selection never was made known to the public and the reasonable assumption was that pull was the most important qualification.

WITHIN THREE months after these refugees had arrived for segregation at Fort Ontario, in safe and comfortable quarters and living conditions incomparably better than those which they had escaped, agitation began to advertise their misery because the American nation, who had saved them from horrors and possible death in postwar Europe, merely insisted on observance of a minor portion of the bargain which they had joyously accepted.

It was agreed that they should stay at their camp and they accepted our asylum on those terms but the harsh Americans soon heard that they were held in something like a Nazi concentration camp, lacking, of course, the gas chambers, the medical experimental laboratories, the brown shirts with dog whips and the deliberate program of starvation, and were pining for freedom.

Be that as it may, the fact is Mr. Roosevelt said these 981 would be predominantly women and children, as it never was intended they should be, and that they would be returned to their homes after the war, as never intended.

★ ★ ★

THE AMERICAN people's part of the bargain was kept faithfully but the parties of the other part were not required to live up to a single article of the deal.

Prior to this, Mr. Roosevelt had tried to persuade Congress to abandon immigration restrictions absolutely by giving him executive power to admit all applicants.

This, too, was masked with false pretenses, for Mr. Biddle, his attorney general of the time, was sent up to the Capitol to plead for this power on the ground that unless it were granted, foreign dignitaries, Mr. Molotov and Mr. Churchill, for example, would be vexed and discomfited going through the regular routine at our immigrations stations and we would have to pay ourselves a head tax of $8 on each prisoner of war brought here for keeping.

All this was sheer fakery intended to legitimize the action which, as to the 981, Mr. Roosevelt later took arbitrarily and without a shred of legal justification.

This is no discussion of the desirability of these persons as immigrants. Their desirability, according to the usual standards, has not even been considered and the adults, men and women both, for all we know, may be Communists, so many of whom in Europe were traitors to every land but Russia and so many of whom are lawyers, doctors, musicians, writers and artists.

For that matter, we have no way of protecting ourselves if a Communist does manage to put his name on a list and has friends here or in our consular service who will use their influence to advance him, as often happened in the years just after the other war.

We can't legally examine their politics any more than we can question them on religious subjects, although we might arbitrarily reject a Nazi or Fascist as being undesirable for having flat feet while accepting a Communist with tuberculosis or worse.

The important point here is that they were admitted on fraudulent representations backed by fraudulent promises which are now admitted to have been no more sincere than Wendell Willkie's memorable "campaign talk," in all a very bad example to them in their first dealings with the government of their adopted land and not a very good example for us natives, either.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 2 — "Anchors Aweigh," MGM's musical hit of the year, is to have a sequel, "All Ashore." Joe Pasternak will again be the producer, using the same trio of stars—Frank Sinatra, Kathryn Grayson and Gene Kelly—and the same director, George Sydney.

Ever since "Anchors" ran riot at the box office, Joe has been looking for a follow-up. He discussed ideas with several writers but liked none of them.

Frank Sinatra

Then not long ago the story he had been looking for cropped up in the mail on the desk. Written by Robert Taplinger, formerly in the Navy, and previous to that one of Hollywood's top publicity directors, the new story carries on with the two gobs, Frankie and Gene, being discharged from the service and converting an old "flattop" into a modern showboat anchored off Los Angeles. Bob got the idea when he saw "Anchors Aweigh" in Guam.

★ ★ ★

"LIFE WITH FATHER" is at least half cast. Fredric March is set for father and there has been a persistent rumor Helen Hayes was the choice of the authors, Russell Crouse and Howard Lindsay, who have the final sayso on the casting, to play mother. When I telephoned Helen to check the story, she said: "It's all very interesting but no one has offered me the part. I'm going into Anita Loos' play and with my radio program am pretty busy." Anyway, it was nice to talk to Helen and be able to wish her and my old friend, Charlie MacArthur, Helen's husband, a happy New Year.

★ ★ ★

WHAT IS GOING to happen to all the films about to be made on the subject of the atomic bomb? I don't know but am practically being blown to bits with news on all of them. The current item is that Spencer Tracy told Producer Sam Marx in New York that he'd like to play Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves in the bomb film MGM will make. Gen. Groves was in command on the project and will be featured in the film. They do say President Truman and the late President Roosevelt may also be impersonated, but somehow I doubt this.

ALL TODAY'S STARS seem to have caught the producing bug. Robert Young is the latest victim. Bob has bought a Western, "The Three Thoroughbreds," by Kenneth Perkins. He'll star in it and play a tough hombre, who tracks down a murderer in the Western badlands, and produce it possibly for United Artists. Maybe Bob's been reading Roy Rogers' box-office rating, which is way up in the first ten.

THE VERY PRETTY French actress, Madeleine Le Beau, who had a small part in "Casablanca" and never seemed to really to get anywhere in Hollywood, is doing very well on Broadway. Anita Loos, who is just back from the big town, tells me Madeleine is so good in "The French Touch," Brian Aherne's new play, that the critics really gave her a lot of attention. She plays Yvonne Printemps, Sacha Guitry's actress wife, in this story about him and his wives.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Mickey Rooney's wife has received a cable he's headed for home; Dorothy Lamour's baby is expected any day and Bill Howard isn't leaving her side for five minutes; Martha Kemp has gone to New York to visit her mother and 'tis said very soon her devoted admirer, St. Clair McKelway, will take himself to Las Vegas for the usual matrimonial reason; according to my favorite doctor, Eddie Goulding's dinner for David Niven, despite Davie's absence, due to that old devil flu, was a stag to end all stags. Such food, such jokes, such music from the Bagpipe Players, and everything except the food was piped in to David. Men always seem to have far too good a time without us gals; it was the gayest New Year's eve, practically since the giddy days of 1929; a lot of my playmates asked me to come to the Beverly Hills Club, where Ann Sothern, the Ray Millands, the Jack Bennys and a lot of kindred spirits hired the entire place for a Dutch treat party. I hear it was wonderful but I spent the New Year's eve with Marion Davies, helping her celebrate her "sixteenth" birthday. We had a beautiful visit talking over old times. Marion looks so wonderful these days I wish she would reconsider and make a new movie.

MY BUSY little scouts reported on the other big parties, the masked ball which Jane and Bill Hollingsworth gave and which was sumptuous, the S. P. Eagle party at which he wanted Joan Crawford as his most special guest, but to which Joan came with—hold everything—Philip Terry; Ann Rutherford and David May partied for Susan Peters and Richard Quine. It was Dick's first chance at black tie since leaving the Coast Guard and for brave Susan it marked a one-year interval since the accident that has invalided her; the most "partied" man in town was Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Mary Pickford and Ty Power are among the many who have given parties for him—we're all so glad to welcome such a war hero home; the Bror Dahlbergs have issued invitations to a dinner honoring the Ed Pauleys this coming Friday; Andre and Mrs. Devan are saying au revoir to Hollywood with a dinner on Thursday; Diana Lynn is having a difficult time coaxing mamma to let her accept that ring Lauren Tindall gave her. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—Miss Reid, for the first, and, I trust, the last time, will you please take down that calendar! I don't care if it is pretty. It is the wrong year. This is 1946, Miss Reid—1946. 1945 has departed into the limbo.

No, I did not call you a "Bimbo." My goodness, what kind of company do you keep? And while we are at it, let me tell you a few things.

Archibald MacLeish

From now on we are going to have more efficiency around this dump. If you will kindly put away that confounded nail polish and dry off your nails so you won't look like you're bleeding to death I will outline a few resolutions.

Effective as of now, we will not wait until the last minute before starting the column. I am sick and tired of having Cole Morgan stick his snoot in the door and ask if I think I am writing for somebody's year book. We've got to do one of two things—start the column earlier or kill Morgan.

We've also got to figure out some perfect system of murder—a method by which we can do in, without being detected, guys who come bursting in and saying:

"I've got a wonderful gag for your column—if you can only figure a way to clean it up a little."

Moreover we've got to get a couple of new dull day guys. We can't bank on Harold Ickes and Archibald MacLeish lasting forever. In fact, many are beginning to feel right now that Ickes won't keep much longer.

I think we should also be very chary in future about identifying such-and-such a senator as a bachelor. Those whom I have named in the past tell me it makes life very difficult. They can scarcely attend any social function without being leered at or downright ogled.

So please take a note not to mention that Sens. Hugh Butler of Nebraska, Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island, C. Wayland Brooks of Illinois, Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania, Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, Robert F. Wagner of New York, David Walsh of Massachusetts and Warren G. Magnuson of Washington are bachelors.

I THINK we should also be hesitant about giving cooking recipes. They seem to agitate our housewifely clientele too much. Look at the dolls who wrote in, telling us we were nuts, the time we gave the late Huey Long's recipe for potlikker.

And Speaker Sam Rayburn said he was almost driven insane by communications from the ladies when he announced he had a special recipe for fried chicken.

Incidentally, Miss Reid, next time you are up at the Capitol make a note to call upon E. L. (Bob) Bartlett, the delegate from Alaska, and ask him what is doing in his bailiwick. Don't forget, we've put on a new paper there—the Ketchikan Fishing News.

Furthermore, I think we should get in more serious stuff. This is a solemn world. So, if anything serious ever happens here in Washington, maybe we should rent a couple of deadpans and report it.

And speaking of seriousness, whatever became of the fellow who turned out to be an interpretive dancer who gamboled on the greensward with his pants off?

In this vein of gravity, it might also be well to get a new interview with Rep. Robert Hale of Maine and ask him if he has been pinched lately in mistake for Justice Frankfurter.

I WOULD NOT say that we have exactly been neglecting Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce but I think we should look her up more often. However, we must be kindly. I see where she has been dropped to tenth place among the best-dressed women of the world and she may feel sensitive about being a frump.

Maybe we could cheer her up by getting off some little nifty, such as handsome is as handsome does, or beauty is only skin deep. But, under no circumstances, is she to be referred to as a "bag."

If Sen. Tom Connally of Texas is to continue accusing Sen. Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota of "chasing butterflies." I think we should study up on lepidoptera. After all, you can't cover butterflies without a program. Remember to get me some color plates of butterflies so I can identify Senator Ball on sight.

★ ★ ★

LET US ALSO have more dignity in this joint, particularly if customers are around.

★ ★ ★

AND IN CONCLUSION, I highly resolve to be a good boy, to love everybody, particularly the publishers who buy my column, and to brush my dentist twice a year.

George Holland

Boston After Dark

THE NEW PLAY "BORN YESTERDAY" qualifies as a "million-dollar play" regardless of the degree of success it achieves in New York (and the degree is likely to be high) . . . To its author, Garson Kanin, it is one of the most important milestones in a brilliant career . . . A well-heeled representative of a very wealthy Hollywood group right now is seeking audience with Mr. Kanin . . . Object: An independent movie company with Mr. Kanin as director-producer and—author.

★ ★ ★

IT IS THAT LAST matter of authorship that has zoomed the Kanin stock to a new high . . . He has been rated a $50,000-per-picture director . . . The suspicion was entertained that Garson, who is married to actress Ruth Gordon, had an anonymous hand in the writing of a successful play called "Over 21," which Miss Gordon wrote . . . But Mr. Kanin gallantly denied that he had been of more than insignificant aid in scripting his wife's success. (And perhaps he was telling the whole truth.)

★ ★ ★

THIS NEW "BORN YESTERDAY" is unabashedly and openly a Garson Kanin manuscript, however . . . Its excellence throughout qualifies Mr. Kanin (who, in good taste, has ceased billing himself as "Captain" Garson Kanin just as "Major" Donald Oenslager, the set designer of "Born Yesterday," has relapsed into civilian identity as one of the very few major triple-threats of the Hollywood scene) . . . Preston Sturges is the Bob Waterfield of the business, currently . . . Frank Capra is at least the Sammy Baugh . . . Garson Kanin, to continue the football-ish analogy, is the Wedemeyer of the industry.

★ ★ ★

YET KANIN HAS another real talent that is seldom used because of the difficulty in casting his frail, unheroic or un-menacing-appearing self, as an actor.

★ ★ ★

KID KANIN can really act. He came first to the attention of this department in a minor role of a play called "Pie in the Sky" when it was tried out in Provincetown 10 years ago . . . This "Pie in the Sky" was not the sad venture which made Broadway two seasons ago under the same title . . . In fact, that original "Pie in the Sky" never reached Broadway although several producers, including Tom Mitchell, the actor, and Tom Weatherly, held options on it, and Mr. Lee Shubert had offered an immediate production if Harry Wagstaff Gribble was acceptable to the author as the play's director.

★ ★ ★

IT WAS A GREAT PLEASURE to meet Mr. Kanin in Provincetown, as the oversigned was the author of that early "Pie in the Sky," and in a cast which included Sam Levene, Margot Stevenson, Don Rowan, Bruce Macfarlane and others, the boyish Garson Kanin proceeded to show in rehearsals that he had more acting talent than any player on the stage (not excepting his friend, Sam Levene) . . . He made a showy minor role the outstanding performance of the play . . . He had "authority" such as his stature and appearance belied, timing that was inspired, a voice that projected like Paul Douglas' and a sure sense of movement that was a pleasure to watch.

PERHAPS GARSON'S authentic talent for acting is the underlying basis of his directorial greatness . . . But it has nothing to do with this other, and more valuable facet of stage and movie genius which is being revealed officially for the first time in "Born Yesterday"—namely, the Kanin ability to write . . . Writers for the theater aren't made in schools of stage-writing . . . You have it, or you haven't . . . And Mr. Kanin has it . . . His destiny to become one of the outstanding little all-around giants of Hollywood is sure . . . May he live long to fulfill it!

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Two streets, both of ancient Roman construction, surpass Broadway in length: the 350-mile-long Appian Way from Rome to Brundisium and England's Watling st. But give me Broadway any old time, for those two streets haven't a single orange stand.

Dorothy Kilgallen

Washington Irving once lived at 16 Broadway. My teachers told me he was a great man, but my Irving is the one who eats daily at 1665 Broadway, Lindy's Restaurant—Irving Berlin of the magic music pen . . . The first street cleaners on Broadway were hogs let loose for that purpose. Now hogs in human form are allergic to the wire paper baskets on every corner and throw their refuse into the streets . . . The Great White Way had its inception early in the 19th century when every seventh house had an extended pole in front of it with a swinging lantern—aglow only on moonless nights. Give me the silly ducks of Douglas Leigh, the Merlin of the magdas; not as romantic as lanterns maybe, but good for laughs.

★ ★ ★

AS PRESIDENT Washington once lived at the McComb mansion at 39 Broadway. The rental was $2,500 annually. It's ten times more today and you can't meet as good a class of people . . . At 43rd and Broadway General Putnam just managed to merge his forces with Washington to escape a nasty British trap—this was in 1776. Today at the same spot you can meet your gal and stand in line for hours to get into the Paramount Theater. The street was named Heere Street originally and was switched to its present tag by the English when they captured Nieuw Amsterdam from the Dutch in 1644. Old documents show that the fancy scribblers of the day called Broadway Wago Way, the Common Highway, the Great Public Road and Inspiration Road. I like our latter day appellations of Mazda Lane, Glitter Gulch, the Great White Way, etc.

★ ★ ★

CENTRAL HOTEL still standing, was the scene of the Jim Fiske shooting in 1872, but that didn't have the color or the mystery of the latter-day murder of gambler Arnold Rothstein at the Park Central Hotel many blocks above on Broadway . . . The Broadway chroniclers record such screwballs of pre-Civil War days as Cow Bell Hattie, who rang a cow bell to warn horse-and-buggy daredevils that she was crossing the street; Drummer Fabian, a cadaverous old gent who beat the hour out on a drum at what is now Union Square; and Indian Melbourne, a freed Negro slave who preached that he was the Messiah of the Indians. But we'll bet they never got as much publicity as some of our own Broadway characters—Broadway Rose, Broadway Sam and Commodore Dutch.

A PLEDGE FULFILLED

The Annual Report to Stockholders of Boston Edison Company for the year 1941, issued early in 1942, contains this pledge:

> "Until this war has been brought to a successful conclusion, the interests of our country and its allies transcend any and all other interests. Therefore, during this extreme emergency the entire resources of your Company, animate and inanimate, must be devoted primarily and unstintingly to cooperation with and acceleration of the great war effort. In doing this, however, neither inconvenience nor sacrifice should be imposed unnecessarily or ruthlessly upon our customers, employees or stockholders. Their interests must be given every consideration consistent with the Company's primary obligation to the country."

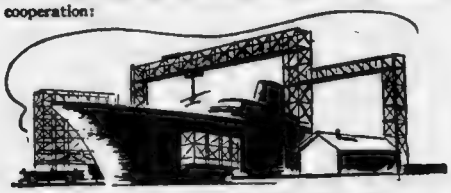
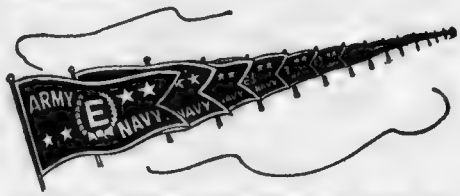
Volumes could be written on the manner in which Boston Edison Company fulfilled this pledge. During the 44 months of war which ended on V-J Day, this Company's resources, were "devoted primarily and unstintingly" to such cooperation. The high quality of Edison's war service is attested by the grateful comments of our customers. And meanwhile, the principal operating expenses — taxes, wages and fuel — increased 40 per cent, while revenues increased only 25 per cent. The Company absorbed these additional costs without increasing its basic rates.

Here are a few highlights in Boston Edison Company's wartime cooperation:



1. EVERY WAR DEMAND MET PROMPTLY. By the construction of new generating facilities, which was already under way before the outbreak of the European War in 1939, Boston Edison Company was in a position to meet the extraordinary demands of war industries. Between 1940, when the National Defense Program was launched, and 1944, the peak of war production, the Company's sales of electricity to industrial customers, measured in kilowatt-hours, increased more than 100 per cent. The manner in which the electric companies of America responded to the requirements of war industry has brought two significant tributes from high-ranking government authorities. Said the Chairman of the War Production Board, "Power has never been too little nor too late." Said a Vice-Admiral of the Navy, "When we asked for power we got power, and not — thank God — alibis."

2. EMPLOYEES MET THE TEST OF WAR. With 638 employees of Boston Edison in the armed forces, the Company began to feel the manpower shortage early in the war. The Company's personnel was reduced from 3300 in 1941 to 2600 in early 1945. Despite the handicap of having 600 fewer men and women at work, the Company nevertheless continued to meet every demand upon its facilities. Today more than 200 of our service men and women are back on the job. Twelve who gave their lives in defense of their country will not return; for their last great measure of devotion, we at Boston Edison shall forever be indebted.



3. ARMY AND NAVY "E" AWARDS. Since electric companies do not manufacture any article used directly in combat, they were not eligible for "E" awards. But the 62 large customers of Boston Edison Company who received Army and Navy "E" awards frankly admit that they could not have qualified but for the assurance they had at all times of ample and reliable Edison power. Certain shipyards, munitions factories and other war plants increased their power loads from 300 to 500 per cent over 1940, but Boston Edison met every such demand promptly.

4. UTILITIES WARTIME AID PROGRAM. Since early in 1942 the public utilities of America have worked in close cooperation with the armed forces for the most efficient use of available facilities. In the New England area, the Boston Edison organization was privileged to assume leadership in this work of patriotic cooperation. The services of highly trained engineers from New England utilities were at all times available to Army and Navy establishments, and the savings in time, money and manpower are incalculable.

5. CONFIDENCE IN BOSTON'S FUTURE. The management of Boston Edison Company has implicit confidence in the future of Boston and the 39 cities and towns of Greater Boston which are directly served by our lines. This area not only can hold its own in competition with other parts of the country, but it has potentialities for more rapid progress — its matchless harbor, its strategic geographical location for air transportation, the skill of its workers, the thrift of its citizens, the excellence of its educational opportunities, and its many other natural advantages.

For many years the stockholders of Boston Edison have been investing in that confidence and will continue to do so. In the next five years this Company plans to spend $40,000,000 — increasing its generating capacity, extending its transmission lines, making alternating current available in direct current districts, and in other ways modernizing its facilities and service. Adequate electric service must precede, not follow, industrial development. General Motors was able to select a site in Framingham for its new assembly plant because five years earlier Boston Edison had brought additional power to that area with a new 110,000-volt transmission line. Those who are planning the industrial development of postwar Boston may proceed with confidence that electric power — the life blood of industry — will be "never too little nor too late."

British Envoy Returns to Iran

LONDON, Jan. 2 (INS)—The London Evening News reported today British Ambassador Sir Reader Bullard has returned to Tehran following hurried conferences at Chequers with Prime Minister Attlee and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

Bullard made a flying trip to London late yesterday after conferences with Persian Premier Ebraheim Hakimi and U. S. Ambassador Murray in Tehran.

It is believed he took back with him a British plan to end the Soviet-Persian crisis.

Reds Deny Hitler Body Found

BERLIN, Jan. 2 (AP)—A high Soviet authority said today the Russians "know nothing" about a French newspaper report Hitler's body had been found in a garden near the Reichschancellery.

The newspaper France-Soir said in Paris the body had been found by the Russians Dec. 19, and identified by a dentist. Its report was not attributed to an official source.

The French report was news to American intelligence officers also. They said if Hitler's body was found they would be able to identify it from the huge file of X-ray photographs obtained from Hitler's physician and dentists.

Rich Chinese Traitor Welcomed Execution

TENAN, China, Dec. 31 (delayed) (AP)—The first high-ranking war criminal convicted in China, Yu Pin-Ching, who amassed a fortune in dealing with the Japs, walked to his death before a Chinese Communist firing squad in Kalgan four days ago.

The vice-chairman of the puppet Inner Mongolian autonomous republic told a special high tribunal:

"I have no excuse for serving the Japs and I deserve to die for high treason."

"They celebrate their anniversary every year by re-enacting their elopement — time has wrought a little change, however!"

High Court Frees 3 In Cult Kidnap Case

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (INS)—The Supreme Court today reversed the convictions of three members of a Utah polygamous sect found guilty under the Lindbergh anti-kidnaping law.

William Chatwin, Charles F. Zitting and Ewna Christensen were charged with transporting a 14-year-old girl across state lines to enter into a plural marriage with the 68-year-old Chatwin.

In a decision written by Justice Murphy, the high tribunal said:

". . . The purpose of the act was to outlaw interstate kidnapings rather than general transgressions of morality involving the crossing of state lines, and the broad language of the statute must be interpreted and applied with that plain fact in mind."

The three defendants are members of the Fundamentalist cult of the Mormon faith, which sanctions plural or "celestial" marriages."

In August, 1940, Chatwin employed 11-year-old Dorothy Wyler as housekeeper in his home in Santaquin, Utah. The girl was converted and entered the cult marriage with Chatwin on Dec. 19, 1940, it was caused.

Subsequently, the three defendants transported her from Salt Lake City to Juarez, Mexico, where she went through a civil ceremony. The kidnaping charges resulte dfrom this trip.

Red Cross Volunteer Answers Plea for Hospital Workers

Women Volunteers Sought in Hospitals

Boston hospitals are in desperate need of volunteer helpers, Dr. Nathaniel W. Faxon, president of the Hospital Council of Boston, asserted today in issuing an emergency appeal to all women with leisure daytime hours.

Dr. Faxon said that because of the acute shortage of nurses and other professional and non-professional workers, many institutions have had to close wards and even entire floors, although nearly every Greater Boston hospital has long waiting lists of persons seeking admission.

Speaking for the 30 civilian hospitals represented by the council, the doctor urged women with free time to help out during the emergency by enrolling at once as Red Cross Nurse's aides, Gray Ladies and dietitian's aides.

"The critical shortage of help in civilian hospitals forms a problem of vital concern to every member of the community," Dr. Faxon said.

"Every available hospital bed is filled and hundreds are waiting for admission, because the hospitals find it impossible to secure sufficient doctors, nurses and non-professional workers to care for a full capacity of patients.

"The need for Red Cross trained volunteers will continue to exist for many months to come, for civilian hospitals can expect little or no relief until the needs of military hospitals are filled."

Volunteers may enroll in any of the three Red Cross hospital services at Boston Chapter headquarters, 17 Gloucester st., where training classes will begin as rapidly as they are filled. The only qualifications are that they be 18 years or over, in good physical helath, and have a high school education or its equivalent.

German Claims Nazi Regime Gone Forever

BERLIN, Jan. 2 (INS)—The President of Saxony in the Russian occupation zone has said the Germans are resigned to an Allied occupation of at least 10 years.

Dr. Erhard Huebner, appointed by the Americans last June and retained when the Russians occupied the area, told touring U. S. correspondents that "no German here any longer believes in the possibility of another Nazi regime."

Seaman Shoots Kin, Kills Self After Row

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2 (AP)—A merchant seaman whose wife left him after a New Year's Eve quarrel shot his mother-in-law and two other relatives and then killed himself today, police reported.

The seaman, Howard J. Moore, 30, seriously wounded Mrs. Anna Bell and her son, John Bell, Jr., 18. The third victim was his wife's aunt.

ADM. FARLEY SWORN IN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Adm. Joseph Francis Farley was sworn in today as commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard, newly returned to the Treasury Department after wartime service with the Navy.

Death at Steak

STERLING, Col., Jan. 2 (INS)—The coroner's office today wondered whether the end of meat rationing should be blamed for the death of John Fitzjohn.

Fitzjohn, 47, a bachelor, died in a restaurant. He had ordered a steak and started eating when his face suddenly flushed. He toppled from the counter stool. Firemen were unable to get oxygen to his lungs.

Q—My husband has been overseas 22 months and has 70 points. I read in the paper and heard over the radio that the 79th Division and the 311th Field Artillery Bn. arrived last week, but I have no further word from him. The postal service has always been 79, but in the last letter received it was 696; he wrote the same address. What does this mean? G. L., Norwich.

A—As of Dec. 31 enlisted men with 50 points are eligible for discharge. If your husband was with this unit it might be that he was sent to a Separation Center and has not had time to write you. The change in APO number might indicate his transfer to a unit alerted for return to this country.

Q—If a soldier was discharged in the month of September, 1945, how many Family Allotment Checks is a wife due, after his discharge?

A—The last family allowance check is paid for the month in which the man is discharged Ordinarily the Office of Dependency Benefits incloses a notice of final payment with the last check.

Q—I enlisted in the WAAC in August, 1942 and served until July, 1943, almost a year, I did not re-enlist in the WAC. Does that mean I am not entitled to any benfits given GI's? I personally know others who have served a shorter period of time and they are receiving all the benefits. Is this fair? A. S., Middleboro.

A—"At least 90 days of active military service" is the wording of the GI Bill. Service in the WAAC is not considered military.

Q—I am sick and unable to work. My son has $80 sent each month to his wife and baby. If he had money sent to me for my support, would it mean less for his wife? I don't want to cheat her out of any but I am desperate. What shall I do? G. H., Burlington.

A—If you can prove dependency, you may apply for an allowance. It would not decrease the amount sent your son's wife. It would mean however, that your son's contribution, deducted from his pay, would be raised from $22 a month to $27. For information and the correct application forms to be completed for an allowance, we suggest you write Headquarters First Service Command, 808 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston.

Jews

Polish centers, Morgan said. They are "well dressed, well fed, rosy cheeked and have plenty of money."

"They certainly don't look like persecuted people," Morgan declared. "I believe they have got a plan—a positive plan—to get out of Europe."

He said he did not believe the mass movement "had the connivance of the Polish government or any other Eastern power."

Arriving Jews, he said, all "had the same monotonous story about pogroms," which, he said, one Allied observer "failed ever to catch up with."

Morgan said he believed the Jews in Europe were "growing into a world force" and that the entire Jewish plan was closely linked with the Palestine problem.

Morgan estimated 350,000 to 500,000 displaced persons would remain in Germany when UNRRA"s mission in Europe is completed the end of 1946.

He said the United Nations should make plans immediately to prolong the life of UNRRA or set up a successor organization to solve the problem. He suggested one solution would be for sparsely settled countries, such as Australia, to agree to accept displaced persons as immigrants.

"There is room also in the United States," Morgan said.

Fall River Vet Missing Abroad

FALL RIVER, Jan. 2—Ernest E. Lincoln, 23, son of a prominent attorney of this city, is reported as missing in the Oban region of Argyllshire, Scotland, his father learned today.

Young Lincoln has been studying in Britain preparatory to entering Cambridge University in April. His father said the police of Oban have given up the search for his son.

The Associated Press said Lincoln had left his apartment clad only in pajamas and a sweater. A part of the pajamas was found on the road and a souvenir matchbox identified as belonging to the student was found on a bridge spanning an inlet.

The missing man was discharged from the Army in August, 1942. He then attended Boston University and later Columbia University. Last October he left to attend school in Scotland.

Legislature Meets, Urged to Speed Up

The necessity for speed in handling legislative affairs was stressed by leaders today at the opening of the 1946 session of the 154th General Court.

Senate Pres. Arthur W. Coolidge urged members "get to work promptly, do the day's work well and expeditiously, and prorogue at an early date."

In the House, Speaker Frederick B. Willis declared the session faced "the greatest and most important task in the State's history" and called for the Legislature "to proceed to the task with no delay."

Reminding members more than a week of the last session was spent in rollcalls, Willis declared: "This year, let us be determined to carry through our business with the greatest possible dispatch."

Prior to opening formalities, Gov. Tobin administered oaths to three new members, all Republicans, elected to vacancies in the House.

Taking the oath were Frank H. Allen of Auburn, succeeding Lewis H. Elliott of Leicester, Warren C. Karner of Athol, replacing Charles H. Cooke of Athol, and Henry W. Bickford of Clinton, in place of Adin W. Custance, also of Clinton.

Rep. George Greene, Roxbury Republican, filed a bill proposing a bureau be set up in the State Housing Board to obtain homes for veterans. The blind representative also introduced a measure calling for a special recess commission to study problems of the blind.

A third bill presented by Greene would reduce from 65 to 60 years the minimum age requirement for old-age assistance applicants.

no undue delay or difficulty in receiving intended benefits"; easing the laws governing unemployment compensation for veterans; free University Extension courses; funds for continuance of counseling service for veterans and the operation of regional educational centers, and priority for housing.

"No problem facing our citizens at this moment is more pressing than that of securing living accommodations," he declared in urging establishment of an emergency housing board.

"This board should be vested with powers consistent with the responsibility for expediting the construction of dwelling facilities of all types in the Commonwealth with special priority to the needs of veterans."

The board would consist of three members, a chairman named by the Governor, the chairman of the State Board of Housing, and the commissioner of labor and industries.

FOR ZONING LAWS

He also urged that the State Planning Board make an immediate survey of zoning laws in towns near cities of more than 50,000 population "to determine the amount of area available for moderately priced homes and rental housing units, and make appropriate recommendations."

The board would be empowered to hear appeals and grant exemptions from "unnecessary and capricious requirements of local building departments which contribute to the high cost of residential construction."

The Goveror recommended unemployment compensation benefits be increased to a maximum "of at least" $25 a week for 26 weeks because "of increases in living costs."

"I recommend the employment security law be amended, to provide further payments graduated in amount according ot the number of dependents in each case," he added.

He repeated his 1945 recommendation for establishment of a State department of commerce "to offset the unfavorable trend which was so pronounced during the 20 years prior to World War II."

KENNEDY REPORT

Referring to the report of the recess commission, headed by former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, he said:

"The report of the commission clearly indicated that job opportunities were diminishing rapidly since the close of World War I and that in every category of comparison, Massachusetts stood in a most unfavorable position with respect to other industrial states.

"I therefore recommend, again, that the Legislature establish a department of commerce at the earliest possible moment."

The Governor reiterated his 1945 proposal that a constitutional convention be called to amend "our present tax structure, which is unsound and outmoded."

"The difficulties of achieving home ownership now facing the returning veteran by reason of increased costs of construction and rising real estate prices, are additional arguments, clearly indicating the need for fundamental tax reforms," he declared.

A third item of his inaugural program repeated by the Governor was recommendation a fair employment practices law be enacted, declaring "it is obvious we cannot maintain unity so long as there is discrimination in employment because of race, creed or color."

The Governor also called for "immediate action" to provide additional facilities for mentally ill residents; a study of existing laws governing child adoption; establishment of a state division of dental health, and extension of the State-sponsored blood plasma program.

He urged that the Legislature be prepared to enact laws providing for taking of land by eminent domain for the United Nations Organization site, should Greater Boston be chosen for the permanent home. He said such land should be set up as international territory in conformity with federal laws.

Track

joining the Catholic leader's stand, said:

"It is my utmost hope that the application for the proposed dog track will be defeated. Readville is a community of homes, schools and churches. The people of that community have already voted against such a track, and now to force such upon them would be a parody of government by the people.

"Every reason of common sense, good citizenship and moral responsibility calls for the rejection of the proposal."

In Hyde Park the ailing Fr. Regan called upon his assistant, the Rev. Thomas J. Foley, to fight the track idea with all his power. He told Fr. Foley: "I wish I could do it myself."

Fr. Foley urged that the area mentioned for a dog track site be used for construction of homes for returning World War II veterans. "We don't want to see the veterans kicked out of homes by greyhounds," he added.

Former Lt. Gov. Kelly said:

"As lieutenant governor I introduced this bill and it was ignominously defeated by the Legislature. After retiring as lieutenant governor I introduced the same bill a number of times, and every year it met the same fate. Perhaps the Legislature now can see the wisdom of returning some rights to the citizens of Massachusetts, who pay the bills and who have a right to choose the men they want in such responsible positions."

Coming at a particularly critical time—just as Gov. Tobin was set to outline his 1946 legislative program to the General Court—Sen. Murphy's rebellion was considered by political observers to involve serious and possibly far-reaching political complications.

As Democratic leader he would be charged with the responsibility of steering the governor's program through the Senate.

"My chief interest is the Democratic party and I don't see how it can stand a continuance of this type of administration," Murphy asserted. "The dog track in Readville is the real climax.

JOHN J. HANNIGAN
Views Holy Name Petition

"The Governor put me up to fight the dog track interests last year, and now I find his brother Jimmy and Billy Galvin trying to engage in the business. That's too much for me.

"I was elected to be our party's floor leader two years ago and so I have another year to go. It's an obligation and I don't want to welsh on it, but there are limits."

The outburst of the Dorchester senator, who was Gov. Tobin's choice for floor leader in the party contest a year ago, was the latest development in the feverish opposition engendered by efforts of a group of sports promoters to obtain a dog track license to operate on the site of the old horse race track in Readville.

Archbishop Cushing, who earlier revealed his "unalterable opposition" to location of the track in Readville, announced that William E. Hale Walpole, president of the Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies, would outline his position in detail at the City Council hearing on the track petition Friday.

The spiritual head of the Boston Archidiocese expressed "high disfavor" at the attempt to place the track in "a district given to homes and schools and churches, with their necessary commercial adjuncts."

He said he especially opposed the location's "close proximity to a convent and two new seminaries established to work for God and Christianity," and commented that it was "being forced on a home-loving people who palpably do not want it"

"I have been watching with great interest the efficient stand taken against the establishment of this track by the clergy and laity of the district," the archbishop added.

"I am particularly gratified at the fine example of Catholic action presented by the newly organized Holy Name Society in going to the front and leading the opposition in behalf of the people of that section."

In a reply to the mounting opposition, a spokesman for the Readville Sports Arena, Inc., issued a statement appealing to veterans to attend the council hearing and "help us fight the powerful interests who seek to perpetuate a monopoly for themselves."

The statement, signed by four officers of the petitioning group, charged the opposition was engendered by "the Republican racing monopoly in Suffolk County."

"We are asking permission to conduct a legitimate business operation in the location zoned for industry in a city which needs the facilities we intend to create. Are you going to join in the campaign to villify four veterans of World War II who dare to compete with the entrenched commercial dog track interests?" the statement asked.

The signers were Benedict F. Fitzgerald, Jr., director and clerk of the new track corporation; Joseph Gerard O'Neill of West Roxbury, president; John Thomas Burke, of Beacon Hill, treasurer, and Theodore F. Lyons, of Roslindale, director.

2-Headed Baby Born to GI's Wife

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. Jan. 2. (AP)—A girl with two heads was born yesterday to the wife of an American soldier, officials of the Selly Oak Hospital said today.

Nurses in the maternity ward said the child—born about a month prematurely—was being kept in a ward with other premature babies and that it awakens for feedings and cries normally. They said, however, that it was "quite feeble."

Hospital officials said both the child's heads were perfect and were attached to twin necks on normal shoulders and body.

Weight at birth was five pounds, 12 ounces.

A doctor who examined her said she had a very slight chance of living. He said the infant apparently had two sets of respiratory organs and the two heads were breathing at different rates.

There are plenty of other reasons why many thousands of men have enlisted, and more thousands are enlisting every day. You'll certainly want to know all of the opportunities open to you. If you'll read them carefully, you'll know why a job in the new peacetime Regular Army is being regarded today as "The Best Job in the World."

Reds in U. S. Plan All-Out 1946 Program

By DAVID SENTNER
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—A revitalized and well-financed Communist party in the United States is all set for 1946—to police the concessions ladled out to the Soviet Union by Secretary of State Byrnes through its multitudinous propaganda network of Red front groups, fellow travelers and the leftist bloc in Congress.

As the reorganized C. P. prepares for an onslaught on critics of the Moscow conference, combined with a frontal attack on the American form of government during the coming year, a simple question poses itself:

If Secretary of State Byrnes was seeking a means of establishing better understanding between the Soviet Union and the United States, why did he not suggest to Stalin that he disavow publicly the Red propaganda—paralleling each twist of Moscow policy—which is flooding this nation?

Byrnes might further have pointed out:

That Stalin's former foreign minister, Max Litvinoff, had solemnly promised former State Sec. Hull that such foreign interference in the internal affairs of another country would cease. (This was at the time when the United States first extended official recognition to the USSR in the early thirties.)

That Red front groups, some of which have adopted slightly new designations, are listed in governmental investigative agencies as including:

American Slav Congress, American Council on Soviet Relations, American Committee for Free Yugoslavia, United Americans of Italian Origin, Hungarian American Council for Democracy, German-American League for Culture, Council on African Affairs, Finnish Workers' Federation, National Party of Puerto Rico, Confederation of Latin-American Workers, American Friends of Chinese People, Council for Pan-American Democracy, American Polish Labor Council, American Round Table on India, Czechoslovak National Council, Japanese-American Committee for Democracy, and foreign groups within the International Workers' Order.

Gromyko Appointed To Far East Board

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The Moscow radio said today that the Council of the Peoples' Commissars of the U. S. S. R. had appointed A. A. Gromyko as the Russian representative on the Far Eastern commission and K. V. Novikov as deputy representative.

Gromyko is the Soviet ambassador to the United States.

Two out of every three hospital patients are admitted for operations or maternity care. Blue Shield spreads the risk over a large number of people—and through the magic of averages pays surgical fees few families could readily meet without hardship.

Over 4,000 Participating Physicians

You retain your valuable right to choose your own surgeon, physician or obstetrician if he is one of 4,000 now participating in the Plan. Without red tape or worry, Blue Shield pays your physician promptly.

If married, and your family income is less than $2500 a year ($2000 for a single person), your surgeon has agreed to accept the fixed Blue Shield fee as payment in full for the operation. Thus, for only a few cents a day, people in this income group may receive the finest surgical service without worry about the cost.

If your income is more than the above amounts, Blue Shield pays its established fees toward the bill—you pay the balance, if any. Allowances are also made for X-ray and anesthesia.

Could you pay a large surgical bill tomorrow—without serious financial inconvenience?

HOW YOU JOIN

For the present, Blue Shield membership is available only to groups of employees where five or more persons are employed.

If a Blue Shield group exists where you are employed, mail the coupon and speak to the person in your company handling the group to find out when additions can be accepted.

If you work in a firm where there are five or more employees—and no group exists—you can join provided an adequate percentage of your fellow employees join with you. Make your wishes known to your employer and send in the coupon.

2 out of 3 hospital patients require surgical or maternity care ...

Beauty — Whole Family Can Use This Skin Lotion — Fashion

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

SOFT, SUPPLE SKIN . . . it's been woman's wish since the beginning of time . . . because smooth, velvet-textured skin is the beginning of real beauty on the face or on the body. Before the onslaught of winter makes its devastating inroads on the beauty of your skin . . . start protecting it with an all-purpose lotion that has 10 years of popularity and prestige behind it. Isn't M-G-M's Ilona Massey just the perfect illustration of the smooth look?

FOR 10 YEARS NOW . . . a delightful all-purpose lotion . . . which we emphasize as a wind and weather combatant and beauty-skin protective . . . has grown steadily in popularity and prestige.

Maybe it's because there are available so many satisfactory uses of this fine chapped and tender skin soother . . . that beauty-wise women hail it as a "natural" the moment Jack Frost's inclement handiwork registers its indelible wintry imprint. Trust a woman to know a beauty bargain.

Here is a beauty item that is not only important for the distaff side . . . but for every member of the family because . . . it soothes reddened, roughened tender skin and keeps hands soft when used after each washing and before and after exposure . . . It softens skin and helps rid it of that dry, drawn feeling . . . It helps guard the skin against beauty-robbing elements of cold and stinging winds . . . It smooths roughened elbows and scratchy heels . . . It is flattering and lasting as a makeup foundation.

Youngsters love to use it as body rub each evening after their hot bath . . . and again before school. Much of the grubbiness which clings to rough, chapped skin might be avoided if their skin were smoothed with this lotion before school or play. You know how junior's knees look. You perhaps have often wondered how the skin could change color so . . . knowing full well that you conform so faithfully to his needed daily ablutions.

After your morning shower . . . start the day with this liquid delight. Rub it on your hands, face, arms and legs. During the day . . . whether your business is a household or office routine . . . use it on your hands before each grubby job. If you have sensitive skin which roughens with harsh soap . . . you'll find it will stay smooth and soft with this lotion used as a cleanser.

For the name of this skin-softening lotion and weather combatant, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ALMOST impossible to believe is the fact that the leather used in the Army shoes is identical with that used to fashion the sparkling white bag so smart for winter resort wear. Due to the war needs . . . women's handbags were made of fabric and leather substitute . . . but now that leather has been released . . . it is returning to civilian life in the form of this chic Koret-designed bag for the first peacetime resort season. A wonderful accessory for the new smart prints and pastels.—R. M.

So Different When Drunk

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: About a year ago I married a man I had known since I was a child and always loved very much. His brother was married to my sister and I saw him a great deal. For ten years he went out of my life, as he married someone else who later died.

Since I've been his wife, he has taken to drinking. As long as he's with me he doesn't get drunk, but he goes out with some of his fellow employes, doesn't come home for dinner and when he returns is drunk. In this condition he will compare me with his former wife, while he never mentions her when sober.

Now, Miss Fairfax, I love this man very dearly and have tried everything to make our life happy. I've talked to him about his drinking, and told him if he loved me he wouldn't treat me in this way. He insists he does love me.

A FAITHFUL READER.

The medical consensus is that men drink because "they can't take it." They get a little false courage out of a bottle, and as the courage begins to ebb, they take a little more to bolster up the last one. Drunkards are sick people and not just perverse and "cussed" as people used to regard them.

Alcoholic clinics are being opened in many cities. If you could persuade your husband to take treatment from an authoritative source and absolutely quit drinking, in all probability he might be saved, and that would also keep your marriage and home together. But no one these days can expect a woman to spend her life at the whims of a man dehumanized by alcohol.

For these days, when you're polishing up your resolutions, it's a grand idea to give your manners a checkup, discarding the tarnished ones, and glorying in the ones that give comfort and happiness to your family and friends. Semi-Formal Wedding

DEAR MRS. BEEKMAN:
1—I had planned to have a semiformal wedding a few days before my fiance's discharge from the Army. Now the date will have to be postponed until after he is discharged and therefore be wearing civilian clothes. If he wears a business suit (dark blue), will it be correct for me to wear the costume I had planned to wear; that is, a trainless gown with a bridal veil?

2—We are to be married in the afternoon. Would it be all right to use candles at an afternoon ceremony? C. B.

1—Yes, for your semiformal wedding your bridegroom may wear a dark blue business suit if you plan to wear a trainless wedding gown, a short veil, carry a small bouquet, and plan the details of your wedding so that they will not be too much on the side of formality.

2—Yes, if the hour of the ceremony is in the late afternoon.

Choice Dishes to Start New Year Menus Right

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

IT'S TIME to gather up a fistful of newly sharpened pencils, tear off a good long sheet of paper and start listing your fond resolves for 1946. Perhaps yours is to whittle down your waistline by exercise as well as diet, or to make a budget and live by it, or to make your meals interesting as well as nourishing.

With rationing a thing of the past, except for sugar rationing, of course—meal plans are due for a reconversion to prewar standards. It's no longer necessary to market by the hunt-and-pick method, planning meals by whatever you happen to be able to find. Now, market lists can be made up in advance and shoppers can be fairly certain that they'll come home with whatever they set out for. So resolve to plan well balanced, well diversified, well prepared meals.

And start a file of new recipes, to be drawn upon regularly whenever menus seem to get routine.

SPANISH LAMB

5 strips bacon, cut fine
2 cups uncooked lamb shoulder, cut in cubes
¼ cup seasoned flour
1½ cups diced celery
1 cup sliced Spanish onions
1½ cups shelled green peas
½ tbsp. lemon juice
1½ cups tomato juice
¾ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 cup peanuts, raw blanched

Cook the bacon to a light brown, then add meat which has been sprinkled with seasoned flour. Brown on all sides, add sliced onions and other ingredients, salting to taste. Cover and leave until steam appears, then reduce heat to simmer for 1 hour. Beef shoulder may be submitted for lamb.

BEEF UPSIDE-DOWN PIE

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2½ tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. paprika
1 tsp. celery salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 tsp. salt
5 tbsp. shortening
¾ cup milk
¼ cup sliced, peeled onion
1 can condensed tomato soup (10c oz.)
½ lb. chuck beef, ground

Sift first 5 ingredients with ½ tsp. of salt. Cut in 3 tbsp. shortening until of consistency of coarse corn meal. Add milk. Meanwhile, cook onion tender in the remaining 2 tbsp. of shortening in a skillet. Add soup, the remaining ½ tsp. salt and beef. Heat; then pour into 9x2-inch round baking dish. Spread dough on top; bake in very hot oven 475 deg. F. for 20 minutes, or until biscuit is done. Serve upside down, cut in wedge-shaped pieces. Makes 4 servings.

STUFFED PORK SHOULDER

½ cups soft bread crumbs
2 tsp. salt
¼ tbsp. minced green pepper
2 tbsp. minced onion
1 cup canned whole-grain corn
¼ tbsp. melted butter or margarine
2 eggs, beaten
1 6 to 8-lb. boned pork shoulder

Combine all ingredients but the pork, and use to stuff the shoulder. (Boning it has left a pocket.) Tie up firmly with string and roast, allowing 40 minutes per pound, in a 350 deg. F. oven. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Peep at Spring Styling

By BETTINA BEDWELL

FROM now on the fashion folks are through with winter. They are concentrating on spring and even summer. Your shops will be showing lots of new spring coats, for instance. They are going South now, but they are also going to be worn here later on.

Many of these coats are made of light neutral woolens and they have an easy swing to them that you are going to like. One model is sketched to give you an idea. This is a coat of greige Meyer lido wool, and the color—between gray and beige—goes fine with most other colors.

Zoe De Salle, who signs the coat, gives it a slim waistline between a soft bloused top with wide-arm-hole sleeves, and above a fitted skirt that flares gently below the hips.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of New York, First Judicial Department, upheld the fine.

Navy Sending 14 Sweepers With Crews of 1200 Home

By KATHRYNE IRVIN

PEARL HARBOR, Jan. 2 (AP) —The new year is starting off on the right foot for more than 1200 men of Minesweeper Squadron 12.

The boys are sailing home today.

The squadron, comprising 14 vessels in three divisions—34th, 35th and 36th—is credited with the ticklish accomplishment of sweeping more than 4800 mines to clear the way for American men o' war.

Of its original 18 ships, one, the Salute, was sunk, another was damaged so badly it eventually returned to the mainland, and two were decommissioned. The remaining 14 are sailing for San Diego and New Orleans.

Lt. Com. Richard Alan Anderson of Lake Charles, La., skipper of the squadron's flagship, Skirmish, said of Com. Fred Crane of Dalton, Mass.:

"He brought us back safely."

Crane two days ago turned over command of the squadron to Com George M. Price of Miami, Fla.

Squadron 12 demolished 1,440,000 pounds of explosives. From Nov. 2 to Dec. 4, 1945, the squadron swept 2100 mines at Tsuchima to participate in the greatest mine-sweeping job in history—that of clearing Japanese waters, a task which still is in progress.

Japanese mine sweepers now are helping do the job.

Crew members of one ship of squadron 12 tell of the Japanese Kamikaze plane they shot down—the one whose motor fell out and dented the deck. The crew of another ship describes how three torpedoes passed underneath the hull, but did no harm. And then there was the dark night when one ship fouled its sweeping gear—with an unexploded mine in the tangle.

Home-Mixed Cough Syrup Gives Quick Relief

Saves You Big Dollars. And It's So Easy! No Cooking.

Here's an old home mixture your parents probably used. But, once tried, you'll always use it, because it gives such quick, pleasing relief for coughs due to colds.

And it's so easily mixed. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a long time.

You can feel this simple home mixture take right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes irritation, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, makes breathing easier, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Ex-GI Barges in At Own Inquest

STREATOR, Ill., Jan. 2 (AP)—Alfred Huber, 31, recently returned home from the Pacific, rushed into the Howland Funeral Home, interrupting an inquest into his reported death.

His mother fainted and his two sisters burst into hysterics.

Earlier, Edward Huber, 52, had identified the body of a young man killed in a taxicab accident as his son. The coroner issued a burial certificate in Alfred Huber's name.

Alfred explained he had made an overnight trip to Ottawa, Ill., and on arriving home was told by neighbors he "better hurry up or I'd miss my own inquest."

Later, the body was identified as Walter Springman, 23, of Alton, Ill., also a discharged soldier.

Vets Face Permit-Racket In Trucking Business

By AUSTEN LAKE

HERE'S A SAMPLE of the dust-off being given "our glorious war heroes" who are looking for job-opportunities in a land which, to use a favorite figure of political speech, "owes them its salvation for their selfless sacrifice in blood and tribulation."

This is the case of Charles A. Bandera of Mt. Everett st., Dorchester, a 96-point veteran of three years in the Pacific. His is one of many similar cases appealed to this column.

Austen Lake

Six weeks ago Bandera scraped together $900 to purchase a surplus Army truck at Ft. Devens. He paid another $100 to have the truck overhauled and painted. Then he went blithely to the Common Carrier's Division of the Public Utilities in Boston to get a permit to haul freight within the city area. Such a permit costs $10.

But he didn't get the permit! All he got was a searching quiz, both oral and written, and a hearing, at which the legal mouthpiece of a big truckers' league was also present. The mouthpiece registered strong objections. The big hauling concerns did not want any more competition which might divide existing transport business. So Bandera, slightly bewildered, went home and stowed his shiny truck in his backyard, where it rests now!

He Could Buy a Permit for $600

BUT, HERE'S THE PAY-OFF! A few days later he received letters from two Boston attorneys saying they controlled a number of permits in the various hauling classifications which they would be glad to sell. So Bandera went to see about it and was told the cheapest of these permits was priced at $600, one that only allowed him to carry a restricted line of freight. But if he wanted a general permit which would let him haul anything it ran from $1000 up. The lawyers said their clients wished to sell.

Bandera didn't have any ready scratch left. So he blew up in disgust and went home to wait some more.

So here, my friends, we have what appears to be a gorgeous little monopoly in collusion with government, if "monopoly" is not too polite a word to use for something else. It could work this way. Suppose I, Austen Lake, wished to turn myself a smart dollar during wartime when our troops were away and private trucking was a scarce commodity. So I go to a junk yard and rig myself up an old arthritic go-cart which will barely cough. Then I apply for a trucking permit with the right parties, and maybe get it.

But, mark you, I don't intend to haul an ounce of freight or roll a single haulage inch. The law doesn't require it! All I want is the permit. So I let the dilapidated truck stand idle and peddle the permit, discreetly of course, until I find a fellow who is willing to fork up $1000. I might have to split the profits with a broker, but I've still got a nifty chunk of change for something I didn't do a lick of work to earn. Under existing law it's perfectly possible!

So today the veteran who wishes to set himself up in a one-truck business and launch a legitimate living, sometimes hasn't a snowball's chance. The Public Utilities doesn't say yes and it doesn't say no, but months go by and, as in Vicki Baum's Grand Hotel, nothing ever happens. He doesn't get the permit for reasons he suspects but cannot pin on anybody. So that's the door to free enterprise that's slammed in his puss.

Until recently when Col. Tom Sullivan became police commissioner the same monopolistic situation existed in the Boston taxi field. Veterans could not get a hackney license, or "medallion," because the law limited cabs to 1525, or about one-half the number permitted in 1929. So the vet was obliged to shop around for some cab man who might wish to sell his medallion at prices ranging as high as $2500, although the original license fee cost only $5.

Sullivan Slammed the Lid

SULLIVAN IS TRYING TO STOP that by asking the Public Utilities to authorize 100 extra tax medallions for veterans ($5 each). And he's obliging all current taxi permit owners who wish to sell or transfer to show convincing cause for such sale, other than they're just sick of the business or want to raise some quick cash.

My argument is that this inflationary resale of truck and taxi permits is not only unfair and open to broad abuses, but that it works particular hardship on returning veterans, who lost their chance to meet such competition when they went to war. There is no logical reason why any trucker who wishes to liquidate his business, including his equipment and garages, should place a higher value on his permit than its original $10 fee. His gear belongs to him and he has the right to sell it for what he can get. But the permit belongs to the Commonwealth and should not become an object of separate bargaining.

What to do? If the law was reframed to require every licensed trucker to haul a minimum number of miles and tons of freight during each three-month period, and be required to file a statement with the P. U., with heavy penalties for falsification, it would be easy to weed out impostors. That minimum should be placed low enough to safeguard the trucker from the vagaries of the business but high enough to prevent phenagling. Inoperative owners of nonexistent concerns would have their permits revoked and reissued to active operators, preferably veterans. Does that make sense?

Any veteran, legitimately interested in launching his own trucking business and not "fronting" for some other person, should have the same rights to operate as a common carrier that he has to open a barber shop or shoe shine parlor or drug store in the neighborhood of his choosing. He doesn't have to buy somebody's "medallion" or permit in most other lines of free trade. All that is required is that he is a proper person and has sufficient capital to pay his initial debts.

Then why should he face a rigid freeze-out monopoly in the motor transport business?

Let our state legislators answer that!

ICY WATER KILLS BROWNIE

CHICAGO, Jan. 2 (INS)—Richard Zirkle, 38, who made a hobby of winter swimming, died while swimming in icy Lake Michigan.

Miami Thrilled by H. C.

By PETE McGRATH

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2—The courageous Crusaders of Holy Cross College, who refused to settle for a tie and lost a desperate gamble for an Orange Bowl victory, today were the toast of an amazed but delighted Miami.

Miami, you see, thought there was nothing outside of Army which could compare with their Miami University Hurricanes. So Miami now is amazed at this Northern team which gave their heroes such a physical trouncing plus a statistical shamboozling. And Miami is delighted and deeply thankful that the fastest man in the State of Florida was in a position where he could intercept a pass and run 89 yards for a touchdown while time ran out.

Until the fleet Al Hudson gathered in the ball that trickled off the finger tips of Bob Conway it was a Holy Cross ball game. The Crusaders had much the better of the going and were so forcefully asserting their superiority toward the finish that it seemed no gamble at all for Gene DeFilippo to throw that pass in the dying moments.

Holy Cross could have smothered the ball on that last play and been hailed as moral victors for gaining tie with the vaunted Hurricanes. But, the Crusaders were in there to win.

The players were not greatly impressed by the play of the Hurricanes. They felt they had played —and beaten—much better teams during the regular season. They thought Miami was a good ball club but certainly not as good as they had been painted by an overenthusiastic Miami press and public.

Coach Jack Harding of the Hurricanes thought Koslowski's kicking, particularly his quick-kicking, kept Miami in the hole. Kos got off quick kicks of 63, 57 and 54 yards and drilled a 63-yard punt over the safety man's head so that it rolled dead on the Miami seven-yard line. Miamians who thought no one could kick like Harry Ghaul had their eyes opened. Kos outkicked Ghaul.

Bibeault Breaks Detroit Jinx

By BILL GRIMES

Paul Bibeault is making it tough for Frankie Brimsek. During the games in Toronto and Detroit over the week-end, Brimsek developed a bone sore on his left hand. So Art Ross switched goalies last night, sending Mons. Paul to the drapes in the Garden.

And Paul turned in his second shut-out of the season, by beating the Red Wings 4 to 0. It was the first win the Rossmen have scored over the Detroiters during the regular season since Dec. 28, 1943.

The game was a battle royal from start to finish, with no holds barred. Jack Stewart, the Wings belligerent defense man was in two fights. There's been bad blood between the Bruins and Wings since the first time the clubs met late in October, when Stewart charged Bobby Bauer into the boards and hospitalized the little right winger for six weeks.

Schmidt and Stewart lost no time going after each other last night. Before drawing their first penalties, they'd taken a few potshots with sticks and elbows. Then, at 8.12 in the first period, they were sent off for two minutes. They hooked and wrestled whenever they were within grappling distance and finally in the second minute of the final chapter they began throwing punches back of the Boston cage. It wasn't much of a battle but they both were given major penalties, which put the Bruins on the spot, for Murray Henderson went off with them for high sticking some opponent.

The Bruins were leading 1 to 0 when Schmidt and Stewart drew their five-minute sentences, on a long shot by Jack Crawford during the final minute of the second period. The Rossmen ragged the puck as much as possible until Henderson returned and then they went into action to win, with Bauer, Henderson and Schmidt scoring.

$650,000 Santa Anita Stakes New Record

By JACK CONWAY

SANTA ANITA with $650,000 in purses for stakes has set a mark which few other race tracks will equal. There is an average of $43,000 for each stake. The fact Santa Anita suffered more than any other major race track as a result of war restrictions did not deter its management from blazing a path in purse distribution which make the ordinary offerings look insignificant in comparison.

Ever since Santa Anita was built its officers and officials have never shown inferiority complexes. They have insisted that their track situated outside of Los Angeles with a mountain background, is the greatest in the United States and by their progressiveness and daring have gone on to convince thousands of people they are right.

Dr. Charles Strubb

A glance at the list of major purses as prepared by Fred A. Purner, public relations director at Santa Anita, give an idea of the vast scale on which horse racing is being conducted this winter in California. The big stakes follow:

$100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, March 9, as the world's richest all-age race.

$100,000 Santa Anita Derby, February 23, most valuable of classics for three-year-olds.

$50,000 Santa Catalina, February 2, most important race for Californian horses in 93 years of state racing.

$50,000 San Pasqual, January 12, 1 1-16 mile test for handicap stars.

$50,000 Santa Margarita, March 2, turf's top race for fillies and mares.

$50,000 San Antonio, February 16, now a major stakes fixture.

$50,000 San Juan Capistrano, March 16, outstanding closing feature to determine distance champion.

Eight stakes, each $25,000 added, on Saturdays and holidays.

AS RACING hits a new high in California, Santa Anita has not forgotten the breeders as many special events have been arranged for horses bred in California. Back in 1910 when racing was banned in California, breeding of race horses was the third ranking industry in the State. With racing out, the majority of the breeding farms went out of business and thousands of people lost profitable employment.

The breeding industry was kept alive in California by a small group of wealthy men who invested hundreds of thousands of dollars in the business without the hope of an immediate return. These breeding farms, like many of those in Kentucky, were conducted as hobbies. Barns were frequently built at a cost of $50,000.

This writer has visited many of the breeding farms in Maryland and in Kentucky. The Calumet farm, Dixana farm, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's farm and the Riddle farm are show places.

The men who carried the huge financial burden in connection with these breeding farms in the lean days of racing will now be able to gain profits on their venturesome business undertakings. It is well for racing that this has happened because otherwise, with high taxes, it would be impossible for the owners of these farms to continue in operation.

$17,000,000 in Purses

SANTA ANITA opened in 1934. Despite the years it was closed during the war, Santa Anita has offered $17,000,000 in purses including the rich stakes of the present 55 day meeting.

Dr. Charles H. Strubb, a dentist, was the driving force in the building of Santa Anita. Dr. Strubb is today executive vice-president with Leigh M. Battson president. Carleton F. Burke is director of racing, while W. A. Everett is racing secretary.

The late Henry Lapham of Brookline, had control of the Garden-Arena Corporation at the time of his death and whose son, Ray, now directs this corporation with Walter A. Brown as president, was one of Dr. Strubb's chief backers. A large block of Santa Anita stock was in Lapham's estate.

California is prosperous as a result of the aviation, oil and moving picture businesses. The people in these industries are particularly race track minded, and they wager large sums at Santa Anita and at the other California tracks.

Few persons visualized the heights that racing would attain in California. Lou Smith was offered the first California racing license. While en route to the Coast, Lou stopped off at Houston, Tex., to look at a site for a proposed race track. Lou liked Texas for racing and built Epsom Downs outside of Houston and passed up California. Racing was later voted out in Texas, while California racing produced as much wealth as the miners back in '49 got for their nuggets of gold which they dug from the mountains.

Dr. Strubb and his associates have proved there is still gold in those hills.

Matt Daiger Out At Pimlico Track

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2 (AP)—Matthias L. "Matt" Daiger, secretary and manager of the Maryland Jockey Club since it was revived in 1905 and one of the best known men at Pimlico, will retire this month, the Baltimore Sun said today. Daiger will be 74 March 9.

Daiger was manager of the Baltimore County Country Club near Pimlico when the Maryland Jockey Club was revived. He became its secretary and has held the position since. He began work at Pimlico in 1898 when it was a trotting track.

His work at the track made him known to thousands of horse racing fans.

It was reported that Daiger, president of thet Maryland State Fair at Timonium would devote much of his time to that job when he leaves the Jockey Club.

San Carlos Stake Captured by Sirde

ARCADIA, Cal., Jan. 2 (AP)—Outlasting his hard-driving competitors, Mrs. A. L. Rice's Sirde streaked to one-length win in the $25,000 San Carlos Handicap at Santa Anita racetrack yesterday.

Girls Take Over at Middlebury

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

'Way up at Middlebury, Vermont, the fair sex is on skis! captained by brown-eyed Becky Fraser, sensational schusser from Woodstock, Vt., the Middlebury College Women's Ski team expects its most successful season in 15 years of intercollegiate competition.

And why not? Becky, alone, is capable of garnering points aplenty in any meet, and her record sparkles with amazing accomplishments on her winged boards. At the age of 16, the 21-year-old lithe lass startled the ski world by placing in the Stowe Sugar Slalom, then copped third in the National Races at Sun Valley, Idaho. Her victories include triumphs in the Eastern Championships, the International Races, at Mt. Tremblant, Quebec, and the Vermont Slalom. What a gal!

Another feminine exponent of twists and turns here is Virginia Hodder of Hanover, N. H. She attained superb skill while still in grammar school, under the tutelage of Walter Prager, Dartmouth coach, and improves with each start.

Diminutive but dynamic is four-foot-eleven Emily Cushing, a downhill and slalom star; while Rose Hull won several points last year.

Eighteen-year-old Peg Curtis gained much valuable experience as a member of the National Ski Patrol at Sun Valley, Ida., for two years, in addition to a five-year period of patrol work at Big Bromley, Vt.

Nat Benson placed well up in last winter's meets, and is another former ski patrolwoman from Big Bromley. Hailing from Winchester, Mass., is Betsy Drake, a "graduate" of New England's rugged trails.

Coach of the team is Bob Sheehan, recently separated from the Naval Air Corps, after three years as a fighter pilot. He headed the Middlebury ski team before the war, also playing football, baseball and basketball for the Panthers.

"The girls on our team don't worry about their noses being powdered," said Bob, "as long as the hills are well covered!"

At the annual Winter Carnival, scheduled for Jan. 18-20, his pupils will have a chance to schuss and swerve against seven other women's ski teams.

Hub Hoop Teams Need Practice

By MIKE GILLOOLY

It's the consensus of opinion among the Boston schoolboy basketball coaches that the teams, scheduled to open their seasons tomorrow afternoon will, for the most part, be hindered by lack of practice.

The combination of vacations and holiday work in the past month have retarded the squads so that some mentors have yet to meet their entire outfits at one time.

These first results, although important in the intown standings, will be more along the line of formal scrimmages. It will take at least another week for the coaches to get a true line on their squads. Still, the four openers will be played as the schedule dictates: Public Latin at Roslindale; Boston Tech vs. Brandeis Vocational at the Latin gym; Brighton at Charlestown and B. C. High at East Boston.

Here's a first draft by the coaches as to how their teams will line up tomorrow afternoon:

Roslindale (Coach Bill Cunningham)—Four senior veterans from a mediocre five of last year . . . Paul Anderson will be back at a forward; George Kouri and Andy Montineo at guards; and Bobby Lynch at center . . . sub Fred Wood will be promoted to first string . . . Dick Nilson, Dave Sill and Earl Shields will be a small but lively 'dynamite line.'

Boston Tech (Bill Powers)—"A load of veterans although I wouldn't dare make any predictions" . . . Capt. Sam Johnson will be at center with Bill Younger and Masrob 'Mizzy' Torosian at forwards . . . the guards still have to be settled between Stan 'Tomsick, Andy Marakoulas and Don Gates.

Brandeis (George Shepherd)—High scoring Bill Barker, center, may not be ready to start, leaving the slot open for Herb Stevens, up from the second team . . . Capt. Walter Sweeney and Bill Murphy (broke his leg last year) will be at forwards . . . John Plisko and Vin Bordonaro at guards . . . Dick Lue and Bob Westbrook will see plenty of service.

Brighton (John Fuller)—Three veterans on an exceptionally small squad of 21 boys . . . Bob Nichols, Sam Cohen and Phil Bognanni will be among the starters . . . the remaining positions will be a toss-up among Kosowski, Choinere, Olson, Lyman, Romano and Miskin

Charlestown (Walter O'Brien)—The Townies lost Joe Doherty to the Navy last month and Al Zink to Nashua, N. H. . . . that leaves only four of last year's squad . . . Capt. Salvy Lombardo will be at guard; Leroy French and Meno DeMao at forwards and Paul Reves at center . . . Bob Buckley, soph John Passalaqua, Bill Woods, Bill Lynch, Joe Sablone and Steve Foti will see service.

B. C. High (Fella Gintoff) — Capt. Tom Leary, forward, is the only letterman on the squad . . . but there'll be talent moving up from the second team which lost only one game in 18 starts last season . . . Soph Paul Hickey will be at forward; Bill Geggif, 6.3, and Frank Brown at guards, Tom Walley at center.

East Boston (Bill Dee)—veterans Joe Prekol and Frank Forgione will be back at forwards . . . newcomers Jim White and Vin D'Angelico will be at guards with Carl Caccia at center . . . capable spares in Salvy Cassaro, Dick Sheehan and Dick Briana . . . We'll hold our own."
